Air Service Starts Over Arctic Nov. 15

The world's first regular passenger air service across the Arctic wastes, between Los Angeles and Copenhagen, Denmark, starts Nov. 15. It will be operated by Scandinavian Airlines System with the approval of the U. S. Civil Aeronautics Board. The route (see map) will go across the top of the world by way of Greenland. A pathfinding flight, by way of Edmonton, Canada, was made two years ago. The new, regular service will be operated experimentally for three years. The U. S. may, if it wants to, authorize an American-flag airline to operate a similar trans-polar route. So far, no U. S. operator has plans for such a run.

Course of regular flights between Los Angeles and Copenhagen, with extension to Stockholm, S.A.S. sought use of U. S. base at Thule, but was refused.

On the historic Los Angeles-Copenhagen run, a revolutionary new "polar path" compass, designed for use in the area of the Magnetic Pole, where ordinary compasses frequently go haywire, will be used for the first time. The heart of the compass is a gyroscope that spins 22,000 times a minute. Examining it here are Einar Pedersen, left, who will navigate the first flight, and Douglas Hembrough of Bendix Aviation Corporation.

15 Miners Trapped, One Killed In W. Virginia

FARMINGTON, W. Va. — A fierce explosion killed one outside worker and trapped 15 men in flaming underground diggings near here Saturday in West Virginia's worst coal mine disaster in a decade.

Two other miners emerged safe but exhausted after the blast ripped the Jamison No. 9 mine of the Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Co., and rescue crews immediately pushed into the shattered shaft to learn the fate of those still entombed.

Nearly nine hours after the tragedy there was no report of any word from them.

The blast, so violent it was heard up to five miles away, crumpled buildings above ground and sent black smoke belching into the sky.

While distraught wives and relatives of the trapped men huddled in forlorn groups near the mine and roads leading to the operation became jammed with automobiles and pedestrians, the rescue workers began their cautious probing.

Helmeted and equipped with gas masks, they presented an eerie sight as they entered the mine under the harsh glare of lamps.

The first two crews emerged a short time later with word they had run into deadly carbon monoxide gas. Two new crews, consisting of seven or eight men each, replaced them.

M. B. Horton, a state mine inspector, said a fire, "probably a pretty big one" had been touched off by the blast.

At 9 p.m. smoke still gushed from the portal entrance of the blasted mine and officials said the fire apparently still burned underground.

Emergency fans were pressed into service to ventilate the sub-surface workings in the dimming hope that some of the miners might have survived the explosion and fire.

The known victim was Howard Jenkins of Farmington, 38-year-old lamp maintainer and father of four. He was working in the portal building when the explosion wrecked that structure, dumping a coal bin on him.

Reds Still Active In Latin America Committee Reports

WASHINGTON — A congressional committee said Saturday that "the Communists are still extremely active throughout Latin America" despite the overthrow of the pro-Moscow government of Guatemala last June.

Asserting that "the Kremlin is stepping up its activities throughout Central and South America and the Caribbean republics, and the colonies of the European powers," the report appealed for greater U. S. aid to countries of this hemisphere. It said the "bald fact" is that Washington has often been negligent toward that critical area while sending billions of dollars to countries thousands of miles away.

Communists right now are concentrating on Honduras and have made "considerable headway in Chile," said the report, by a House subcommittee investigating Communist aggression in Latin America. Rep. Hillings is head of the subcommittee.

"The situation in Chile is so tense that the government was recently forced to declare martial law," the report said. "Red agitators are working openly in Costa Rica, Ecuador, Bolivia, and Mexico; in British Honduras, in British Guiana, in Trinidad, and in the French island of Martinique."

At some time between 1:30 and 4:30 a.m. — local time for each time zone — on Wednesday, all radio stations will shift to one of two frequencies — 640 or 1240 kilocycles. The usual station identification will be avoided and the only announcement made will be, "This is a special exercise being conducted jointly by the United States Air Force, Federal Communications Commission and civil defense organizations."

By using the conelrad system, civil defense officials would be able to get information to the public without at the same time aiding enemy bombers in finding their target.

Talk Of Compromise On McCarthy Issue

McCarthy Trying To Make Himself Martyr: Carlson

WASHINGTON — Sen. Charles McNamara said Saturday night the McCarthy issue has become a McCarthy issue and has resolved itself into "whether or not you are for communism or against communism."

And Sen. McCarthy is "trying to make himself a martyr in this issue," said Carlson, a member of the six-man special committee which unanimously recommended that the Senate censure McCarthy's conduct.

Carlson, interviewed on the CBS radio program "Capital Clockroom," said it is "unfortunate" that the Senate must face the question "by accusation and innuendo, instead of the issues that are presented here."

"If there is anyone in the Senate who is for communism, I wouldn't know who it would be," Carlson said. "There is no one. That is the issue and the debate."

U.S. Pledges Economic Aid To Japan

WASHINGTON — Japan's Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida ended a six-day mission to Washington Saturday and left for home, where he faces a political battle. With these assurances of U. S. economic aid:

1. An agreement to send Japan 100 million dollars worth of surplus American farm products, 15 per cent of which will be a gift to the Japanese school lunch and clothing programs. The remaining 85 per cent will be paid for in Japanese currency, to be spent in Japan.

2. An American offer to negotiate a new tariff-cutting agreement with Japan, plus a side offer to grant limited tariff cuts to other friendly governments that agree to lower their trade barriers against Japanese goods.

3. A pledge of strong U. S. support in a drive to enroll Japan as a full member of the 34-nation GATT—General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade. This is a free world organization designed to reduce trade barriers. Membership for Japan would be expected to help her sell more goods in Southeast Asia and Latin America, where her chief competitors are Great Britain and the United States.

Radio Stations, U.S. To Test 'Conelrad' On Wednesday

WASHINGTON — The government and the nation's radio stations are going to test next Wednesday the "conelrad" system for fooling navigators of enemy bombers.

The idea of conelrad—which gets its name from "control of electromagnetic radiation"—is to broadcast the same programs for all radio stations, using the same wave length and broadcasting no station identification. Bombers headed for American cities thus would be unable to pick out a particular station on which to "home in" by using a radio direction finding compass.

At some time between 1:30 and 4:30 a.m. — local time for each time zone — on Wednesday, all radio stations will shift to one of two frequencies — 640 or 1240 kilocycles. The usual station identification will be avoided and the only announcement made will be, "This is a special exercise being conducted jointly by the United States Air Force, Federal Communications Commission and civil defense organizations."

By using the conelrad system, civil defense officials would be able to get information to the public without at the same time aiding enemy bombers in finding their target.

Eisenhower Presses German Rearm Plan

WASHINGTON — The Eisenhower administration pressed ahead Saturday with its program for rearming and completing an alliance with West Germany despite an 11th hour demand from Moscow that the West turn instead to a Soviet-sponsored European security system.

While State Department officials plunged into a detailed study of a Soviet note released in Moscow, they gave every evidence of sticking to the line that Secretary Dulles has laid down: That is that there can be no successful negotiations with the Soviet on great European issues until West Germany's partnership in the Atlantic alliance is finally and officially determined.

At Toledo, Ohio, near where the President is on a hunting holiday, White House press secretary James C. Hagerty announced that the President will send to the Senate Monday for approval documents giving West Germany virtually full sovereignty and making it a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The all-European security pact which the Moscow government proposed Saturday as an alternative to German rearmament was first put forward by Foreign Minister Molotov in a Big-Four foreign ministers meeting in Berlin last January and February. Dulles said the United States would have no part of it and the French and British governments firmly rejected it. The Russians have nevertheless tried to promote the idea in a series of notes since that time.

It is recognized here that conclusion of the program for rearming West Germany is a turning point in the history of the postwar world and one which may deeply worry the Moscow government in terms of its own defensive position.

Tax Battle Shapes Up For '55 Session Of Congress

WASHINGTON — Democrats on the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee Saturday indicated substantial support for some cuts in excise or sales taxes next year.

They will face the issue shortly after Democrats take control of the new Congress in January. Under present law, taxes will drop automatically April 1 on automobiles, gasoline, liquor, cigarettes, beer and wine, and trucks and buses.

These reductions — amounting to about one billion dollars in revenue per year — were first scheduled to take place last April 1 but were postponed at President Eisenhower's request, over Democratic opposition. That could bring a rough fight on the always touchy excise tax issue.

All 10 holdover Democrats on the committee were asked whether these cuts should be permitted to take effect next April, or should be postponed again.

Their replies varied — four lined up definitely for letting the reductions take effect, while five appeared undecided and one did not answer.

They generally agree, however, there would be more support for cutting excise taxes than for letting another scheduled reduction take effect.

Jewel Thwarts All Efforts To Get Her Out Of Sewer Pipe

DECATUR, Ill. — Jewel, the crazy mixed-up heifer who's behaving like a mole, was snug and well provisioned in her underground sewer pipe Saturday — cut off from the tribulations of the surface world until Monday.

Work on a Decatur city construction project has been held up since Thursday when the 600-pound heifer tumbled down an uncovered hole into a 500-foot-long sewer pipe.

Thwarting all rescue efforts to date, she bowed over three workmen who tried to capture her yesterday, and today she routed two men who tried to entice her back to the opening.

"She's safe down there for the weekend and there's plenty of food and water if she wants it," philosophized farmer-owner Ernest Florian as he pitched a supply of hay through the hole into the pipe.

For some reason, Jewel, has disdained the shaft of bright daylight that stabs through the manhole opening into the four-foot wide round sewer pipe. She prefers the lanky darkness some 200 feet down-

Knowland Predicts Showdown In 10 Days

WASHINGTON (AP)—New talk of compromise on the McCarthy issue was heard on Capitol Hill Saturday as Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) predicted a showdown on the hot question within 10 days.

Sen. Watkins (R-Utah), chairman of a special committee which recommended censure of the Wisconsin Republican senator, said at least one committee member had expressed belief the word "condemned" appearing in one part of the resolution should be changed to "censured."

"I don't see any difference in the two words but at least one committee member seems to feel that we are going too strong in asking the Senate to condemn McCarthy," the Utah senator declared.

Later he said: "I signed some recommendations and I haven't altered my position. I am in favor of what the committee recommended."

Sen. Case (R-S.D.), a member of the special committee, told newsmen he thought that to take McCarthy to task for his conduct would be "somewhat sterile and negative" and that he would like something "more constructive" to develop from the debate.

Meanwhile, Sen. McCarthy disclosed he has invited Watkins to testify Monday morning before the McCarthy Investigations subcommittee in connection with the Peress case. McCarthy has been trying to ascertain who was responsible for the promotion and honorable discharge of former Army Maj. Irving Peress, a New York City dentist whom McCarthy calls a "Fifth Amendment Communist."

Before the special Senate session began a week ago McCarthy said the Watkins committee had absolved Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker of being responsible for Peress' promotion.

McCarthy advised Watkins this indicated the special censure committee knew who was responsible and invited Watkins to testify before the investigations subcommittee.

Watkins has said he'll be there. As to who promoted Peress, he said, "I'd like to know myself, I know Zwicker didn't."

Case said earlier in the week that the whole controversy might be quickly ended if McCarthy would retract his remarks about a 1951-52 Elections subcommittee which investigated him. McCarthy called Sen. Hendrickson (R-N.J.), a member of that committee, a man with "neither brains nor guts."

TOKYO (AP)—The Japan News complained today that the centuries-old Japanese art of flower arrangement has gone to pot.

Describing a flower arrangement show, the News said, "Hardly any of the 53 exhibitors featured live flowers but instead used such outlandish materials as rocks, steel painted in glaring colors and even glowing neon signs."

Committee Votes Go Ahead For Dixon-Yates Contract

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Republican-controlled Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee gave President Eisenhower an immediate go-ahead for the controversial Dixon-Yates contract Saturday.

Democratic opponents promptly served notice they will continue their fight against the private power project.

By a 10-8 vote along straight party lines, the committee decided to waive a requirement that the contract be before it for 30 days while both houses are in session—or until next February.

Democratic congressmen, who have fought vigorously since June against the proposal to bring new private power into the Tennessee Valley Authority System, had sought to postpone the contract until the next Congress comes under their control.

Jacques Fath Dies; Eminent Designer Of Women's Clothes

PARIS (AP)—Jacques Fath, the eminent designer whose mother tried to discourage him from entering the "sissy" world of fashion, died Saturday of leukemia in his swank apartment on the Seine. He was 42.

Fath was one of the "Big Three" of the Paris fashion world, sharing the spotlight with Christian Dior and Pierre Balmain.

His climb to fame and fortune began during the occupation when he became popular with the women of Paris by designing dresses in which they could pedal bicycles with ease and flair. In those days bikes were the only available transport.

With the aid of his beautiful blonde wife—who used to pawn her jewels on occasion to pay the creditors during the first struggles for success—he reached such prosperity that his annual bill for champagne ran around $3,000.

But leukemia, the disease marked by an excessive number of white corpuscles in the blood stream—struck Fath down at the peak of his career.

Fath had been given daily blood transfusions since an examination at the American Hospital confirmed his affliction a month ago.

He lived just long enough to have his last collection—models made especially for manufacture and sale in the United States, Canada and Latin America—shown here.

He was too ill to witness the display. Mrs. Fath put up a bold front by attending in her usual role, a first-row spectator.

TYPHOON HEADS FOR PHILIPPINES

MANTILA (AP)—A new typhoon with 130 mile an hour wind bore down today on the Philippines, still digging out from a tropical twister that hit the islands earlier this week.

The new storm dubbed Sally, was last reported 460 miles east of Legaspi City on the southeastern tip of Luzon Island.

The Weather Bureau said the storm was moving westward at about 18 miles an hour.

U. S. AID FOR VIET NAM REFUGEES

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—The United States has allocated 40 million dollars to aid 500,000 refugees from Communist North Viet Nam. U. S. officials announced today.

Leland Barrows, local director of the program, said the figure includes an emergency allocation of 10 million dollars made by the Foreign Operations Administration last August.

17 Inch Deluge Of Rain Floods Key West, Fla.

KEY WEST, Fla. — A deluge of rain which broke all previous records buried streets here under several feet of water Saturday night.

Weathermen reported that around 17 inches of rain have fallen during the day, practically all of it since noon. The steady rain was continuing late tonight.

Streets were "about car-seat deep" in low areas, weatherman Jack Brown said, and "traffic was at a standstill." The police reported, however, that no traffic or drowning deaths have yet been recorded.

The rainfall easily shattered Key West's old 24-hour record of 13.54 inches which fell during a hurricane in 1933.

SEE TV FOR JAP HOMES — TOKYO (AP)—A popular size television sets going on the market next spring may put TV into a large number of Japanese homes, Kyodo News Service said today.

The receiver, with a 10-inch screen, will cost about 50,000 yen ($180)—Japan has less than 34,000 television sets, mostly in the Tokyo area.

U. S. PACKAGES FOR W. BERLIN — BERLIN (AP)—The U. S. government will distribute Christmas packages to about 200,000 needy West Berliners next month. Each is to contain 13 pounds of food.

Police Restrict Teen-age Gatherings In Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA — Recent teen-age gang violence Saturday forced jittery police and juvenile authorities to crack down on all youngsters aimlessly roaming the streets in groups.

Police Commissioner Thomas J. Gibbons, fearful that the screaming, fist-swinging mobs of Negro youngsters that erupted in two sections of Philadelphia this week might result in bloodshed if not curtailed, clamped down on congregating teen-agers.

"This doesn't mean mass arrests," Gibbons said. "It merely means that we want to make sure no disorders are afoot."

Police said the rioting Wednesday night and yesterday afternoon was a flare-up of gang rivalry, among both boys and girls. Two boy gangs were involved Wednesday when 500 milling, defiant teen-agers assembled in West Philadelphia. Seven gun shots were heard,

GLASS EYE EXPLODES, TREAT MAN FOR CUTS

ALTON, Ill. — Thomas Parker, 82-year-old justice of the peace, was back in his office today despite an unexplained explosion of his glass eye in his home Friday night.

Parker was treated for cuts at a hospital and released. Parker said that he had taken a bath and was stepping out of the bath tub when the eye exploded.

"I thought I'd been shot," Parker said. "My wife tells me the explosion made a surprisingly loud noise."

"I was lucky, though, because the damage wasn't much. It hasn't hurt me all day and my doctor assures me there is nothing to worry about."

Parker's physician said the explosion "wasn't too uncommon" but said it was the first such as he knows of here.

The physician said he had read of other cases but knows no positive cause.

Finds Dad He Had Not Seen Since Age Of 11

An article in The Columbian, a newspaper at Vancouver, Washington last week told a heart-warming story of the reunion between a 23 year old Army veteran and his father whom he had not seen since he was 11 years of age. The young man was William Lee Shawen of Jacksonville who was united with his father, Charles O. Shawen, former resident here, after a period of 12 years.

The elder Shawen is now a fisherman at Vancouver. The occasion was the second milestone in the life of young Shawen who was temporarily blinded on army maneuvers in Germany while in service. After much time spent in army hospitals he suddenly recovered his sight some time ago after being struck by a truck.

The father and son had been out of touch with each other since Charles Shawen left the family home in Jacksonville some years ago. Morgan county members of the family were not even sure the elder Shawen was still living, but the young veteran left Jacksonville some time back determined to find his father if he were still alive. Billy's mother died in Jacksonville when he was 13 years old.

The reunion was brought about in part by an aunt, a sister of Charles Shawen's, Mrs. Paul Crouse, 6913 East Tenth Way, Vancouver, Wash., and a brother living in San Francisco, William Shawen visited

Old Landmark Is Removed At Farm West Of Chapin

BLUFFS — An old landmark, a large cottonwood tree over 100 years old on the Clyde Williams farm west of Chapin, was cut down by the Wabash bridge gang and section crew. This tree once six feet in diameter stood near the Wabash right of way and because of its size the Wabash officials considered it a hazard to the railroad, telegraph and signal lines. It took the crew five days to reduce it to ash. Williams assisted pulling the tree over with a tractor.

During the steam engine age the train men pulling heavy loads from Bluffs up the grade figured if they could get up to the "old cottonwood" they could make the grade without stalling which would make it necessary to double the grade, that is, to cut the train and take part of it to the siding in Chapin then return for the remainder. It was a common thing for trains to stall on the grade but since the diesel has taken over no more stalling is to be contended with.

Grierson's Raid—Story Of A Jacksonville Hero

By LOUIS WILLIAM NORRIS

November fifteenth will see the publication of Grierson's Raid, a book about a daring 16-day cavalry journey through the state of Mississippi that was led by a famous Jacksonville hero, Major, Colonel, and finally Brigadier-General, Benjamin Harrison Grierson. This book by D. Alexander Brown, to be published by the University of Illinois Press, constitutes a fascinating contribution to Civil War history.

Colonel Grierson was a music teacher in Jacksonville who put on minstrel shows and composed light tunes, some of them for Lincoln's political campaigns. He also played the piano and jews' harp. For a brief interlude of five years prior to the War, he had carried on a general merchandising store in partnership with John Wallihan in Meredosia. By selling too much on credit the business failed and he moved his family back to Jacksonville. His residence, now owned by MacMurray College, was at 852 East State Street.

Here the Grierson family lived during the War. The house was an underground station for slaves and around it cluster many mysterious legends of intrepid service to slaves which Grierson's dash through Mississippi to Baton Rouge alone could make credible. Mrs. Walter Bellatti, 1146 West College Avenue, Mrs. Elsie C. Thurman, 729 West State Street, and Mrs. Walter L. Frank, of 244 Park Street, all great-nieces of Colonel Benjamin Grierson, continue to live in Jacksonville.

Even if Colonel Grierson had not lived in Jacksonville, local residents will want to read this book. It describes Grierson's response to Lincoln's call for volunteers in April of 1862. He accompanied an Infantry company from Jacksonville that reported for duty at Cairo. After five months of living on borrowed funds, since he had received no pay, he was assigned to the Cavalry.

This was the last branch of service he would have chosen since he had been kicked in the face at the age of eight by a pony. As a consequence his forehead was split and one cheek mangled, the scars remaining the rest of his life. But his request for transfer was flatly refused. He found himself in charge of the Sixth Illinois Cavalry. By the Spring of 1863, April 17 to be exact, he received orders to lead the Seventh Illinois and Second Iowa regiments from LaGrange, Tennessee, southeast to Memphis, on a raid into Mississippi.

Grierson's orders were to distract and disorganize the Confederate troops in General Pemberton's theater of war, for it was Pemberton who was giving support to Vicksburg and preventing Grant from coming Vicksburg and a reopened Mississippi. He was to cut the Mobile and Ohio Vicksburg railroad, by bending the rails when heated over wood fires. This would isolate Vicksburg from the east and south-east.

General Patton, or Rommel, "the desert fox," in our own time did not manifest more daring surprise of a confused enemy than did Grierson. He was a master at bluff, circuitous marching to throw off pursuit, sly scouting to capture new intelligence, instinctive surmise of the movements both by his enemies and allies. With light supplies, exhausted, the Colonel and his men, outwitted enemy scouts, burned trainloads of enemy supplies, cut telegraph lines, won the admiration of a considerable number of Southerners, and struck terror in the Confederate soldiers that would put Hoppalong Cassidy's mastery of cattle rustlers to shame.

One need not enjoy war, or even have been a war veteran, to enjoy reading this book. Brown's other two books have sharpened up his sense for the dramatic. He finds suspense in the forced marches, the planned ambushes that almost prove fatal but turn out to be hoaxes, the bridges almost burned too soon, the unexpected meeting of Union and Seesh soldiers seeking to lift hams and chickens from the same plantation. The whole range of human emotions come out as these men ride hard in their saddles, sometimes as much as thirty-six hours at a stretch.

Men sleeping with heads buried in horses' manes while the horses slosh through muddy roads and shed heavy midnight rain from their weary flanks, leaves a picture so real the reader goes down the road himself. The slim rations of bacon and hardtack, sometimes "animated" by the doctor's worst enemy, leave not much glory even in that war. Chivalrous treatment of "Seesh ladies" and cavalier brandishing of sabres when galloping to attack, give some semblance of its being a gentleman's war. But the trickery of false reports to the enemy, the waste of his stores, the Jacksonville's own General Benjamin Grierson, whose daring 600 mile cavalry raid through Mississippi during the Civil War is recounted in a new book just published by the University of Illinois Press. His exploit contributed significantly to the Union victory at Vicksburg.

Mrs. Elsie C. Thurman, 729 West State street, a great niece of General Benjamin Grierson, presents Dr. Louis William Norris with a copy of "Grierson's Raid," new book which recounts the General's service in the Civil War. The presentation was made in front of the old Grierson home, 852 East State street, now the property of MacMurray College. Dr. Norris, president of the college, is author of the accompanying review of the book by D. Alexander Brown.

'U.S. Must Have Big Business To Thrive'

The Rotary Club speaker for Friday was Guy Arthur of the Guy Arthur Associates, who was introduced by Sam Pack, general manager of Mrs. Tucker's Foods, Inc., who was program chairman for the day. Guy Arthur Associates is a firm specializing in personnel problems and industrial relations. In his talk, Mr. Arthur stressed how fortunate people are to be living in this country. He said God had surely blessed this country, because, our living food, shelter, transportation and communication are better than anywhere else.

"We were blessed possibly because our country was established on faith in God, and on certain unalienable rights derived from the consent of the governed," the speaker said. "Now, however, we are getting away from these basic truths due to political concepts developed in the 1930's such as the government or union will take care of us; expectation of automatic promotion and increase in pay as we become older; that profit is bad and that big business is bad."

He brought out the fact that big business is helpful and sighted the nylon industry to prove that only big business can furnish the capital and research necessary to develop a new industry and directly be responsible for many new smaller industries.

Arthur cited that we must do more to improve our present system and pointed out that the civic club members of Jacksonville and all over the United States must assume the responsibility of selling our system.

He said some of these responsibilities are to build trust in God; show people our government is the best in the world; sell the free enterprise system as offering the best possible future; prove by our actions that our way of life provides a way of life other people would like to have.

The Egyptians mummified many birds as sacred animals.

Jane Powell, determined to make gentlemen out of her husband's rowdy and unkempt brothers, gives them an ultimatum—"No cleanliness, no show!" Howard Keel, her husband, does not appear in the scene with "brothers" Jacques d'Amboise, Jeff Richards, Russ Tamblin and Tommy Hall. It's from M-G-M's boldest new musical "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers," filmed in CinemaScope and Anasco Color. The hit is now showing at the TIMES THEATRE.

A beautiful and impressive double ring ceremony performed at 2:30 o'clock, Sunday afternoon, October 24, in St. Peter's Lutheran Church, near Arenzville, united in marriage Miss Roseanne Ruppel of Beardstown and Robert Herman Ommen of Chapin.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver G. Meyer of Beardstown and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arch Ommen of Chapin.

The double ring ceremony was pronounced by the Pastor of the church, the Rev. George Buschhoff.

Preceding the ceremony, a medley of wedding songs were played by the organist, Miss Elizabeth Paul, who also played the accompaniment for Mrs. Charles Long, soloist, who sang, "Because" and "I'll Walk Beside You." Before the first song, candelabra were lighted by Miss Shirley Platt and Miss Pat Gard. The traditional wedding marches were played for the professional and the recessional.

After vases held white chrysanthemums and white p.o.m.s. White tapers were burning in branched candelabra. A white aisle cloth extended from the door of the church to the altar.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attended by her sister, Miss Kathleen Ruppel, as maid of honor.

Harold Covey served as best man and ushers were Wilbur Meyer, Marshall Meyer and Allen Brewer.

Lace and Satin Gown—Traditional white satin with French imported Chantilly lace fashioned the bride's floor length gown made en-train. The long sleeve fitted bodice had an inserted lace yoke attached to an upper yoke of nylon tulle ending in a high rounded neckline. The bodice was fastened down the back with satin covered buttons. The skirt featured a drape effect forming a scalloped peplum at one side and a generous inserted skirt of lace on the opposite side. The skirt was fully bouffant and over southern ermine. She wore a Chapel length veil of nylon tulle attached to a pearl tiara and blusher banded with seed pearls. Her bouquet was Colonial style of white carnations showered with smaller blossoms. Her jewelry were pearl earrings, a gift of the bridegroom.

They wore identically styled floor length dresses of fall colors of orchid, gold, melon, and chartreuse. Each wore a matching head-dress of taffeta and net, and carried a Colonial bouquet of carnations and chrysanthemums with ribbons to match their dresses.

Laundry hint: bluing is fine to use to neutralize the yellow tint of white fabrics and make them appear white. But be sure to read the label on your bluing to see if it contains iron. If it does, your clothes must be thoroughly rinsed to remove the last traces of soap before bluing is added. Otherwise the soap and the iron in the bluing will combine to form rust spots on the clothes.

Junior Club Continues To Take Part In All Patriotic Parades

Met Star Captivates Jacksonville Audience

By SARAJANE M. BROWN

A second outstanding program on the Community-MacMurray Concert Series was presented Friday evening in the Annie Merner Chapel—the voice concert by Nadine Conner. Those who have listened to the voice of Firestone and the Railroad Hour, must have felt that they already knew Miss Conner, and that Friday night they were greeting in person a friend of long standing.

Her many national broadcasts and telecasts have established her firmly in appreciative understanding by the American music lovers, while her artistic accomplishment Friday evening, her charm of stage presence, and her friendly cordiality of deportment held our admiration.

ner then sang the Aria from the immortal opera "La Sonnambula" by Bellini. This great aria is very demanding—the head resonance kept its brilliance and flute-like quality, reminding us of the bell like sound that somehow lingers on.

Three Chopin selections followed which were of contrasting nature "Song of the Moon" from "Rusalka" by Dvorak with its heavy lyrics lent Miss Conner an opportunity to use her beautiful voice with exceptional vibrancy and power.

In the rendition of the famous "Jewel Song" from Faust the singer sang with unusual emotional coloring. This aria was delivered with a tremendous amount of operatic savoir-faire. It was a joy to hear.

An able accompanist is valued by a singer and such Mr. Galen Lurwick proved himself to be. In addition to his splendid support to the soloist, he appeared as pianist to interpret a varied and interesting piano group—Spanish Sonata by Albeniz, Nocturne by Resplighi and Etude by Paganini, brilliantly transcribed by Franz Liszt.

The second half of the program by Miss Conner was a perfect balance with the first half. The audience was introduced most brilliantly to compositions by contemporary composers such as Marie-Joseph Canteleube, Cyril Scott, Daniel Wolf, Richard Hageman and John Alden Carpenter.

For encore Miss Conner charmed her audience with such familiar songs as "Sweetheart," the well known "Comin' Thro the Rye" and "I'll See You Again" and "Bittersweet" by Noel Coward.

All in all this was a most glamorous and exciting evening.

The accompanying picture is of the decorated car contributed by the Junior Woman's club for the Veteran's Day parade on Thursday, Nov. 11. Four years ago the club undertook a civic project, "Bigger and Better Patriotic Parades for Jacksonville" and awakened interest in service, civic and social groups for larger turnouts on Memorial Day and Armistice Day, now called Veteran's Day.

Many hours of extra work were involved in contacting groups in 1950 by the club's committee and the parade after the project's inception was gratifying. Since that time patriotic parades in the city in May and November have been worth the effort to view instead of a handful of faithful as in the past. The Junior club has always entered an attractive float or decorated car in patriotic parades, both before and after the project of 1950.

This year's car was decorated by the American home chairman, Peggy Dawson, and her committee, Nedra McCurley, Jerry Schuman, Betty Price, Mary Lou Penza, Kay McGinnis, Hester Stein, Betty Wahl and Trudy Walker.

The Studebaker car was donated for the occasion by the Walker Motor company. The group used the theme, Stars and Stripes, with red, white and blue paper streamers forming a large flag over the body of the car. Dorothy Floreth, Betty Mathews and Juanita Herrin rode in the car in the parade.

Fifty Guests Present
The November meeting of the club was held Friday evening at the Dunlap hotel and was also annual Guest Night. Fifty young ladies were guests at the dinner meeting which was conducted by Dorothy Perry, vice president, in the absence of the president, Mary Herr. Mrs. Perry welcomed guests on behalf of the club.

Mary Barb Gruber, program chairman, presented Miss Hazel Boswell, faculty member at the Illinois School for Deaf, who in turn introduced three of her small pupils from the school. The children gave the story of Red Riding Hood, depicted with pictures and signs. The group enjoyed the program very much.

Betty Mathews, style show chairman, announced the venture a success, and thanked members for their cooperation. Corrine Davidmeyer announced that volunteer workers from the club for the Morgan County Community Chest, collected $145. The group from the club that helped with the recent ward party for patients at the Jacksonville State hospital were also commended for their community service.

A choral group will be formed among the club members. Those interested are to contact Vera Sue Schneider, phone 643-Y.

At the December meeting all members attending will take a gift for an exchange. They will also take toys to be distributed to needy children in the community. Initiation ceremonies will also be conducted at the December meeting.

She is the second of ten Middle East visitors arriving this season.

After spending her early years in Tanta, Egypt and completing her secondary education in Alexandria, Madam Shafik went to Paris where she studied philosophy, journalism, Greek, Latin, and modern languages at the Sorbonne. Later she received her Ph.D. from the Jean-Jacques Rousseau Institute of Philosophy.

Since her return to Egypt in 1940, Madam Shafik has become one of the most outspoken leaders for the emancipation of women in her country. Many of the steps taken in Egypt to enhance the status of women can be traced directly to her untiring efforts. In 1948 she organized a movement called "Girls of the Nile" whose aim was women suffrage.

The business session was conducted by the president, Almyra Jackson. Helen Little was appointed to work in the Passavant hospital Gift Shop November 17.

Mrs. Clarence Schewe is attending the province convention as the chapter's official delegate. Others attending are Mrs. Edward Jackson and Mrs. John Murray. A cocktail party was held Saturday evening before the sorority's Candlelight Banquet. Both affairs were held on the famous Starlight Roof at the Chase hotel overlooking beautiful Forest Park. Music for the occasion was furnished by Charlie Novack's orchestra.

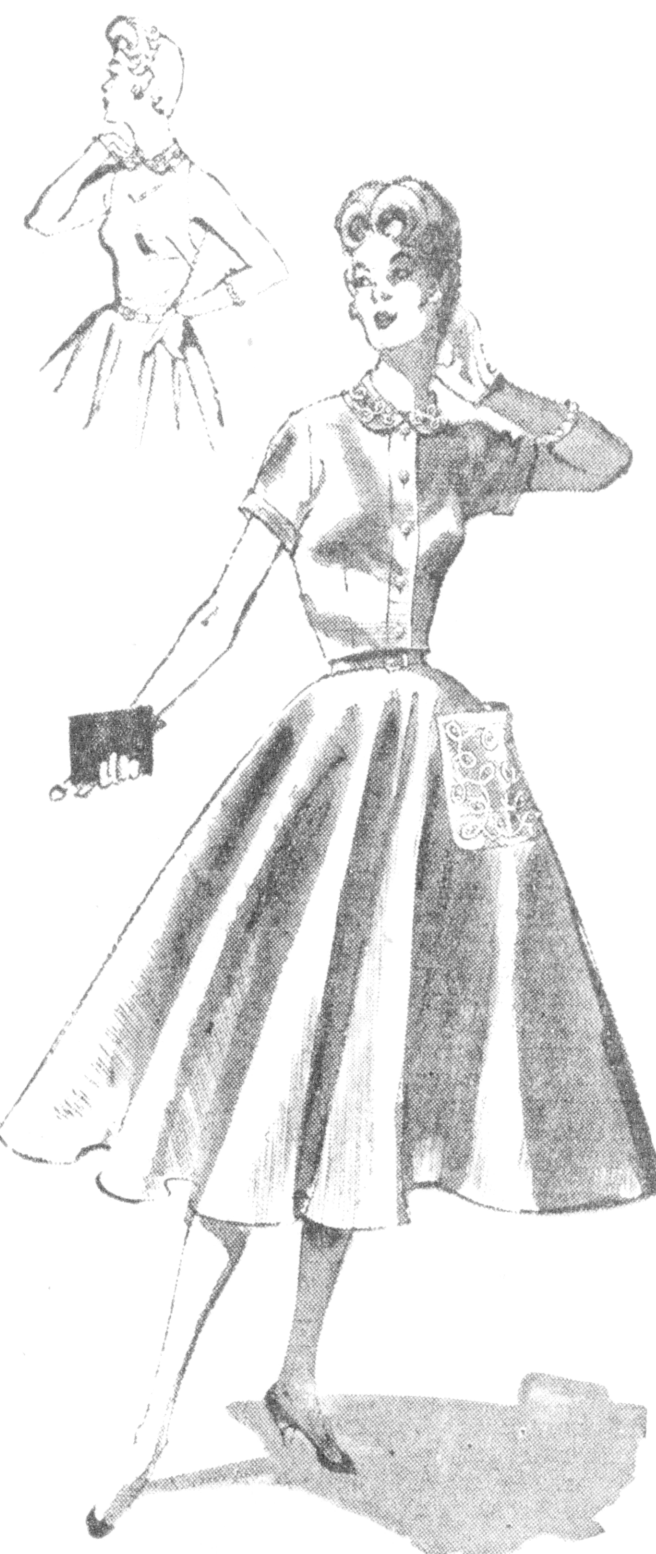

Delta Theta Tau, a philanthropic sorority founded in 1933 at Muncie, Indiana, has 195 active chapters and 87 alumnae associations throughout the United States. Membership is near 15,000. The past year the various local chapters have spent $112,495.88 for various charities. Each chapter has its own philanthropy such as aid to hospitals, schools, children's homes and other related projects. Delta Nu has just helped soliciting for the Morazan County Community chest and collected over 100 dollars. One member works an evening each month in the Gift Shop at the Passavant hospital.

National Project

The sorority nationally is remodeling a 28 bed section, to be known as the "Delta Theta Tau Wing," to the Magnetic Springs Polio Foundation, Magnetic Springs, Ohio. This Foundation will render complete service in a rehabilitation program equal to that of the famous Georgia Warm Springs Foundation. Polio patients from any part of the country will be accepted. Through physical therapy methods, the patients will learn to do everyday living tasks for themselves. Patients who have been completely dependent on others for such services as combing their hair, feeding and dressing, will learn to care for themselves. Many will learn to walk again.

The sorority also supports the Delta Theta Tau Nursing Service at Pippapas, Ky. Two nurses, trained in midwifery as well as mother and baby care, minister to the needs of mountain families. They operate a clinic, and make calls far back in the hinterland in a jeep. The mountain folks pay as best they can, sometimes twenty-five cents a call, often with eggs and potatoes.

The Delta Theta Tau Community School at Brinkley, Ky., was founded by the sorority in 1927. Today the third generation of children are attending this school, a model institution for that part of the Kentucky mountains.

HONORARY DEMOTION
CONCORD, N.H. (AP)—Cornelius A. Brinkmann, state director of Civil Defense, has been made an honorary commodore in the Oklahoma Navy, roughly equivalent to a Kentucky colonel.
Most people would consider this a promotion. However, Brinkmann, retired from the U.S. Navy in 1947, after 36 years service, with the flag rank of rear admiral — one notch above commodore.

While Watkins said he stood by the committee recommendations in general, he said he does favor a clarifying change in the second count of the resolution. This count contends that McCarthy "intentionally abused" Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker, former commanding officer at Camp Kilmer, N. J., when the general was a witness before McCarthy's investigations subcommittee earlier this year.

The Watkins committee charged as part of this count that the Wisconsin senator had "released executive hearings in which he denounced" Zwicker.
McCarthy has replied by citing telegrams he sent to subcommittee members announcing that unless they objected he was making public the record of a closed hearing at which he said Zwicker was unfit to command. McCarthy's friends thought he had scored a major point.

Watkins said he favors revising this count to make it plain the six-member inquiry committee was complaining about McCarthy's action in summarizing Zwicker's testimony to newsmen immediately after the closed session had ended. Army officials complained previously that McCarthy did not give a true picture of what happened in the session.

Watkins said he will reply Monday to McCarthy's assertion that the six-man committee became "the unwitting handmaiden" of the Communist party in bringing the accusations against him.

The Utah senator said he also wants to discuss McCarthy's declaration that he expected to become the victim of a "lynching bee" in the Senate, a charge the Utah senator indicated he felt strongly about.

Republican Leader Knowland said that whether any compromise of the censure resolution is offered "may depend on what happens in the debate." He said he thinks the Senate will reach a showdown within 10 days and certainly before Thanksgiving.

"So far as I can find, there is no desire for delay," he said.

Woman's Club

The November meeting of the Arcadia Federated Woman's Club met at the Arcadia hall Nov. 10. Mrs. Frank Rolf served as hostess to the 21 members present. The meeting opened by the president, Mrs. Loren Burrus, leading the group in song. The pledge and prayer was led by Mrs. Wilson Henderson. The secretary's report was given by Mrs. Lark Buck.

Mrs. Irland Thompson gave the treasurer's report. Roll call was answered by telling of "My Favorite Past Time." In response to the National Federation Woman's Club Drive to get out the votes, each member present stated whether or not she had voted. The affirmative answers were most gratifying. Final plans for the club open meeting were discussed.

Three new members were voted into the club. Mrs. Oren Mallicoat, Mrs. Byron McGinnis and Mrs. Verne Thomas. The program committee, Mrs. Thomas Parlier and Mrs. Blanch Wheeler, used hobbies for their topic. An interesting article about quilt making as a hobby was read by Mrs. Charles Clark. Mrs. Harold McGinnis discussed the increase of hobbies. "The Portrait of a Young Man" was read by Mrs. Thomas Parlier. A display of hobbies which represented many of the well known hand work articles, was enjoyed. A contest of alphabet bingo was won by Mrs. Charles Clark. The hostess served lunch at the close.

The December meeting will include a Christmas gift exchange. It will be held at the Arcadia hall Dec. 8 with Mrs. J. E. Dinwiddie hostess to a 1 o'clock luncheon.

However, McCarthy said in Milwaukee Friday night that he had no intention of apologizing for what he said.

The word "condemned" appears in a section of the proposed censure resolution dealing with McCarthy's alleged abuse and obstruction of the 1951-52 committee which investigated his finances. The resolution says such conduct "is hereby condemned."

While Watkins said he stood by the committee recommendations in general, he said he does favor a clarifying change in the second count of the resolution. This count contends that McCarthy "intentionally abused" Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker, former commanding officer at Camp Kilmer, N. Committee Votes Go Ahead For Dixon-Yates Contract

The President wrote the committee last Wednesday requesting quick approval so that construction could begin soon. Administration spokesmen predict a critical power shortage by 1957 in the TVA area.

Hollifield said he will introduce a resolution in the next Congress to nullify the contract, and he predicted that Democrats on appropriations committees will fight against granting funds to carry it out.

The committee's action came after it had heard Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) label the contract as "dishonest" and "fantastic." In an hour-long statement, the Tennessee senator said the contract had "loopholes" which might still permit Dixon-Yates "enormous windfall profits"—a contention which the contract's supporters have denied.

By RADER WINGET
NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market this week maintained a record breaking pace that shoved it ever higher toward the fateful all-time peak of 1929.

For the past 14 months the market has been climbing at a dizzy pace seldom interrupted by a reaction.

In mid year it got back up to old levels of 1929, the October when the stock market was in convulsions that only ended with the deep depression in 1932.

Last week it was poised around the highest point in 25 years when it recessed for election day. The election results touched off a rally that scarcely paused for breath in a headlong rise that hasn't been matched since the troubled days before the start of World War II.

Every day this week the market established new 25-year high marks with the Associated Press average ending the week at $143.50, the highest since Oct. 15, 1929.

Since the first of this year the average has gone up $35.40, and it now stands $14.20 away from the all-time high established Sept. 3, 1929.

Volume on the rise was impressive. The total for the week was 16,167,000 shares, greatest since the third week in January of 1951.

The daily average of trading this week was 3,231,000 shares. It was the 19th time this year that business has passed the two million mark. There has been no such showing since 1929 when there were 267 days when business came to two million shares or better.

There was still another record. On Tuesday 1,261 individual issues were traded out of the 1,529 issues listed on the New York Stock exchange.

The five most active issues this week on the New York Stock exchange were: New York Central up 3 1/4 at 24 on 314,300 shares; Chrysler off 1 1/4 at 64 1/4; Panhandle Oil up 1 1/4 at 9 1/4; Baltimore & Ohio up 2 1/4 at 31 1/4, and U.S. Steel up 3 1/4 at 63.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

CHICAGO (AP)—Reduced receipts and steady to higher wholesale pork prices supported gains in live hogs this week. Barrows and gilts wound up 25 to 75 cents higher and sows 25 to 50 cents higher.

Top at the week's close was $20.10. Order buyers were active. Choice 180 to 220 pound hogs comprised a much smaller portion of the run than a few weeks ago. Average drove weight for barrows and gilts was approximately 235 pounds, heaviest for this date in several years.

In the cattle section slaughter steers and yearlings finished unevenly steady to 50 cents lower while heifers were steady to 50 cents higher. One load of high prime heifers sold at $28.00, highest for heifers since November, 1953. Cows were steady to 25 cents higher and bulls steady to strong.

Woolled lambs lost around $1.00 in a slow trade. Yearlings ended weak to 50 cents lower and sheep held steady. A considerable increase in receipts in the early part of the week was mainly responsible for the decline. Wholesale dressed lamb held steady at Chicago while advancing at New York.

CHICAGO (AP)—(USDA)—Salable hogs 300; barrows and gilts 25-75 higher; sows 25-50 higher.

Salable cattle 300; slaughter steers and yearlings unevenly steady to 50 lower; heifers steady to 50 higher; cows steady to 25 higher; bulls steady to strong; vealers mostly steady to 1.00 lower; stockers and feeders largely steady; average to high prime steers 29.75

Ohio State Gains Tie For Big Ten Crown In 28-6 Win Over Purdue

By DALE BURGESS
LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Ohio State's Buckeyes nailed down at least a tie for the Big Ten football championship and probably a Rose Bowl trip Saturday in a triumph of brilliant running over Purdue's passing game, 28-6.

The Bucks cut up Purdue with long touchdowns runs by halfbacks Bob Watkins and Howard (Hopalong) Cassidy and a short plunge by quarterback Dave Leggett before scoring once through the air for variety.

They stopped Purdue three times inside their 15-yard line before allowing the Boilermakers to show on the scoreboard.

Once - beaten Michigan, which plays Ohio State next week remained in contention for Big Ten honors and the Pasadena trip by beating Michigan State 33-7.

Watkins scampered 30 yards for Ohio State's first quarter touchdown. Cassidy sped 68 yards like a wind-blown, scarlet-and-gray autumn leaf in the second, leaving Purdue tacklers snapping at the turf like frustrated kittens. Thursday Weed kicked four extra points.

Leggett, a converted fullback, pumped inches for the third Buckeye touchdown in the third quarter at the end of a 75-yard drive. He passed 12 yards to co-captain Dick Brubaker in the end zone in the final period after Purdue made its only score late in the third. Bill Murakowski got the Boilermaker touchdown on a 9-yard run.

Ohio State, which stands second nationally in the weekly Associated Press poll, thus remained undefeated.

It gained 407 yards on the ground, 41 in the air. Purdue made only 88 yards in the first quarter, 217 by passing.

Ohio State used just six plays to cover 87 yards in the first quarter. Watkins went the last 30 yards.

The Buckeyes started their second quarter touchdown drive at their 28 after a punt exchange and covered the 72 yards in three plays. Hubert Boob did for three and Watkins for four. Then Cassidy took a pitchout and scampered down the right sideline for 68 yards.

Purdue covered 64 yards in eight plays for its third quarter touchdown by Murakowski. Leonard Dawson, who had thrown 14 touchdowns passes to lead the nation, didn't add to his total but completed a couple of short ones in the drive.

Ohio State scored 7 7 7 7 28. Purdue scored 0 0 0 0 6.

Ohio State scoring: Touchdowns, Watkins, Cassidy, Leggett, Brubaker. Conversions, Weed 4.

Purdue scoring: Touchdown, Murakowski.

'Greatest,' Says Minnesota Mentor Of McNamara Play

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota coach Murray Warmath said Saturday night captain Bob McNamara's performance in the Gophers' 22-20 victory over Iowa "was the greatest I have ever seen in my career as a player or a coach."

McNamara, playing at both fullback and right half, scored the Gophers' two first period touchdowns, bursting 36 yards on a hand off for the first and racing 89 yards with a kickoff for the other. He picked up 115 yards rushing in 15 attempts and intercepted one Iowa pass.

Warmath called McNamara's punt return for the touchdown "the greatest example of one man against 11. He had just one idea in mind, to take it all the way. It was the finest example of brilliance and desire I have ever seen."

"If Bob isn't an All-American, I've never seen one."

Bears Top Oregon

BERKLEY, Calif. (AP) — Jerry Drew, a second string fullback, ran wild as the California Bears rolled up a 46-7 victory over Oregon State in a Pacific Coast Conference football game Saturday. Drew scored the last three touchdowns and gained a total 283 yards for the day.

In 1950 the Crimsons went undefeated winning 9 and scoring 182 points while holding their opponents to 51. The next year the Kraushaars went through the season winning 8 and losing only 1. However, that year they racked up a total of 260 points while holding the opponents to 63. In 1952 the Crimsons had a 5-3 record, in 1953 a 6-3 mark and this year a 6-2-1 mark.

During these past five seasons the Jaks have scored over twice as many points as their opponents. The Crimsons ran up a total of 809 as against 407 for their opponents.

At kept a complete set of statistics throughout the season. Larry Scott was the leading ground gainer for the Jaks. The halfback carried the ball 87 times picking up 549 yards for a very respectable 6.3 yards per try average.

Fullback Skip Dyer, although playing with a bad ankle the last two games, ended his sophomore year carrying the ball 119 times and picking up 547 yards. His average per try was 4.7. Ron Terry, another second year man, carried the pigskin 75 times, gaining 401 yards and an average of 5.3 per game average.

Kent Dawson picked up 162 yards, Lewis 116 and Fairfield 55. In the scoring department, Dyer topped the field with 23 points. Scott added 24, Knight 19 and Trier 18. Lewis attempted 36 passes, completed 20 for 222 yards. The Crimson quarterback punted 23 times and had a 32.1 average.

On the defensive side, Roeger had 64 unassisted tackles and was in on 71 more. Jim Woodward had 51 unassisted and was in on 69. Marquard had a hand in 51 tackles and made 44 by himself. Dyer and Fairfield topped the backs in the tackling department. Marquard had six recoveries of fumbles and Woodward four. Marquard blocked three punts as did Roeger.

The longest run from the line of scrimmage was by Lewis who raced 57 yards against Beards-town. Scott had the longest punt return, a 35 yard gallop against Westville while Lewis returned a Macomb kick off 33 yards.

This year's 7-0 loss to Taylorville was the first time since 1949 the Crimsons have failed to score. The last time this happened was during the '49 season when the Jaks lost to Clinton 13-0.

In our account of the U.S.D. Crimsons game we overlooked the leading ground gainer of the day. Halfback Jerry Kane of the Tigers picked up 101 yards from the line of scrimmage in 12 attempts for an 8.4 yards per try average. It's days like this that shouldn't be overlooked.

Flippin Scores 3 As Princeton Upse s Yale 21-11

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Inspired by Royce Flippin, back in action for the first time in nearly a month, fired-up Princeton upset Yale 21-14 Saturday with Flippin scoring all three touchdowns for the Tigers. The winning one came with only 16 seconds left in the game.

Flippin's performance, which included a 70-yard scoring dash early in the final period, was nearly equalled by a desperate Yale rally in the closing minutes. The Elis, trailing by 14 points, tied twice and added the extra points.

But then, with the score tied at 14-14 and the game in its final moments, Princeton rolled 58 yards after the Yale kickoff with Flippin billing over from the two with the winning touchdown.

The score was set up by a 32-yard pass. Dick Emery to Don MacElwre.

San Jose Gains 1st Win Over Stanford

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — San Jose State threw a bevy of shuttles back and a hard-charging line at Stanford Saturday, and beat the Indians 19-14 for the first time in the history of their rivalry.

A jubilant San Jose crowd ripped down the goal posts after the game. The Spartans scored in the first quarter, fell behind twice during the course of the game, then came back and beat the Indians with a fourth quarter touchdown.

Packers Nip Colts

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Green Bay Packers spotted Baltimore a 13-point lead in the first 26 minutes, then roared back to spill the Colts, 24-13. Saturday night in a National Football League game before 19,786 fans at Milwaukee County Stadium.

Indiana Rallies, Nips Northwestern U. 14-13

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Indiana pass-master Florian Helinski, bottled up through most of the third quarter, set up a 13-yard touchdown run by Milt Campbell late in the fourth quarter with a 50-yard pass and kicked the extra point for a 14-13 victory over Northwestern Saturday.

Trailing 13-7, the Hoosiers took the ball on their own nine-yard line and marched for the touchdown behind Helinski's brilliant marksmanship.

Helinski hit end Brad Bomba with a 13-yard aerial to get Indiana out of the hole. Another pass to end Bob Fee put the ball on the 32.

Middies Mangle Columbia 51-6 In Tuneup for Army

ANNAPOLIS, MD. (AP) — A fleet of fast Navy backs and hard charging linemen mangled Columbia 51-6 Saturday in a final tuneup for their football date with Army two weeks away.

Coach Eddie Erdelatz used his first team less than 17 minutes. Helinski intercepted three of Helinski's aerials to tie a Big Ten record held by many players and consistently broke up Helinski's passes in the third period.

Northwestern kicked off to open the game and grabbed a fumble by Bartkiewicz on the second play of the game on Indiana's 6. Fullback Bob Lauter scored four plays later and Tom Callaway converted.

A few minutes later, a pitchout by Helinski went wild and Northwestern recovered on Indiana's 27. George Gondek picked up 5 yards before Penta tossed a 22-yard touchdown pass to end Jack Stillwell. Center John Danore missed what turned out to be a very important conversion attempt.

Indiana scored 0 7 0 7 14. Northwestern scored 0 0 0 0 0.

Indiana scoring: Touchdowns, Bartkiewicz, Campbell conversions, Helinski 2.

Northwestern scoring: Touchdowns, Lauter, Stillwell, Conversions, Callaway.

Southern Cal Hands Washington 11-0 Trouncing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Halfback Monte Dondor whipped 95 yards for six points on the opening kickoff and Southern California went on to bombard the helpless Huskies of Washington Saturday with six touchdowns and a 41-0 defeat.

This blowout in the afternoon at Washington was merely a work-out for the Rose Bowl-bound Trojans' big game next week with UCLA, the nation's top ranking football team.

The crowd of 36,108 included members of the UCLA squad, who had no game Saturday.

The Trojan varsity scored four touchdowns in the first eight minutes of the game, and then gave way to second, third and fourth string players.

Dondor contributed a 29-yard dash along the sideline on his second touchdown of the initial scoring half. Sophomore Jon Arnett capped a 62-yard march with a 15-yard sweep-off right end for another, and quarterback Jim Contratto scored from two yards out after Leon Clarke blocked and recovered a Huskie punt.

Reserves picked up a couple of touchdowns in the third quarter to complete the scoring.

Penn Drops Eighth Straight; Bows 35-0 Before Army

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Army's powerful football team majestically administered to Pennsylvania its eighth consecutive defeat of the 1954 season Saturday, 35-0.

Pete Vann, Army's tricky quarterback, big Don Hollender, and Tom Bell stood out for the Cadets, with Bell and Hollender each scoring two touchdowns.

Despite perfect weather only 34,477 showed up for the game—the smallest crowd for a Penn-Army game in recent years.

Only the superb punting of Walt Henzki kept the score as low as it was. Once the Penn halfback kicked for 75 yards, another time he punted 57 yards out of bounds on the Army 3, and on another occasion he kicked 54 yards out of bounds on the West Point 16. Late in the game he kicked 42 yards out of bounds on the Army 13.

Hollender scored his first touchdown on a 56-yard pass play from Vann and his second on a beautiful 50-yard pass, also from Vann, that he caught on the goal line.

Bell ran seven and five yards for his two TDs.

Army's final touchdown was made in the last period by reserves who marched 80 yards in 6 plays with Pete Lash going over from the four.

37 Dogs Meet For Nat'l Retriever Title This Weekend

By DION HENDERSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

The dogs that make the difference between a full bag and a frustrating waste to wildlife for many a hunter will have their day — and some spectacular days they'll have — this coming weekend at Weldon Spring, Mo.

At least 37 retrieving dogs of four breeds have qualified through a series of grueling trials for this National Retriever Championship, the largest list of entries in the 14-year history of race to face competition for the title.

The dogs include 29 Black Labradors, two Yellow Labs, one Chesapeake and five Gold Retrievers. They're headed by the 1952-53 National Ch. King Buck, a black Lab owned by Nio Kennels of Brighton, Ill., who is back to challenge for an unprecedented third title.

All but two youngsters among the entries have won field trial championships, and one—the Black Lab Cherokee Buck, owned by R. L. Darlington of Chicago—has won a bench championship for beauty as well.

But beauty won't count in the four-day grind starting Thursday over the thousands of acres of the August A. Busch Memorial wildlife area. There will be minimum of 10 series of tests, divided equally between land and water retrieval, come hail or high water, with the chance that the judges will call back the top dogs for additional demonstrations of how to mark, to handle, to find and to fetch birds.

Third Quarter Safety Gives Minnesota 22-20 Win Over Iowa Eleven

By JIM KLOBUCHAR

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota turned a goal line Iowa gamble into a game winning safety Saturday in an ironic climax to a 22-20 victory studded with the running heroics of Gopher captain Bob McNamara.

A crowd of 65,439, second highest in Minnesota history, watched one of the most gripping struggles in the schools' long and fierce rivalry.

Iowa committed its fatal mistake in the third quarter on the very play which had punctured Minnesota's defense almost without challenge for the first two quarters.

Right half Eddie Vincent fumbled quarterback Jerry Reichow's high pitchout in the end zone and fell on it for a safety with the score tied 20-20.

Seconds earlier, Iowa had an apparent winning touchdown snatched away when officials detected a Hawkeye clipping on Earl Smith's 81 yard sprint into the end zone on a punt run back.

The penalty shoved Iowa back to the 3 and an offside infraction sent the Hawks to the 1. Iowa tried two running plays which produced negligible yardage before Reichow tossed to Vincent.

It was a game of swiftly shifting fortune, bannier by McNamara's two long touchdown gallops and the deadly end sweeps of Vincent and Smith.

Minnesota scored a little more than two minutes after the opening kickoff, McNamara banging 36 yards for the touchdown against Iowa's second team. The Hawks retaliated 10 minutes later after Smith sped 68 yards to the Gopher 12. Four plays later Reichow punched over from the 1 for a 7-7 tie.

McNamara grabbed the end-zone kickoff on the 11 and pounded 89 yards to score with a magnificent breakaway from three Iowa tacklers at midfield.

Iowa locked it at 14-14 on Smith's one yard blast later in the second quarter before Minnesota's Don Swanson threw 26 yards to Dick BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP) — Four members of a women's field hockey team from Principia College were injured Saturday in a collision at Towanda, 15 miles northeast of Bloomington.

Most seriously injured was Audrey Christman, 21, student who was in critical condition at Brokaw Hospital, Normal, Ill. She suffered head injuries.

Mrs. Jackie Schapp, 31, a teacher, remained at Brokaw Hospital with less serious injuries. Miss Jean Leiser, 36, another teacher, suffered several fractures and was transferred to a hospital at Elmhurst, where the college is located. The other student was treated and released.

Harvey was treated for leg and chest injuries and released. He was fined $107 in Normal Police Court on a charge of driving on the wrong side of the road.

Harvey told police he fell asleep and his car veered into the opposite lane and sideswiped the women's car.

3rd Period Spree Gives Pitt 21-7 Win Over Nebraska

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Pitt used a dancing 40-yard run by Chuck Cost and a one-handed pass interception and 30-yard return by center Ed Bose Saturday to set up a 21-7 victory over Nebraska.

All this was done by the Panthers in the third period—one that ended with Pitt leading 14-7 after Nebraska struck back with a brilliant Willie Greenlaw to Ron Clark pass play that covered 57 yards to the goal.

The downfall of Nebraska began when Pitt punted a hole in the middle for Cost to slide through. He coasted goalward, dancing away from three tacklers before being hauled down on the five. Two plays later Bob Grier scored from the three.

Then Nebraska went into the air but Bose picked off a throw with one hand on the Pitt 40 and went back to the Nebraska 30. Ambrose Bagamery scored from the three. Pitt added an insurance score in the final period.

Tiger Cats Win

HAMILTON (AP) — The Hamilton Tiger-Cats closed out the 14-game Big Four schedule Saturday with a 15-7 victory over the Toronto Argonauts. The game meant nothing to the standings—the Tiger-Cats already were assured of a playoff with the Montreal Alouettes, who lost 14-12 to Ottawa.

TRY A CLASSIFIED AD

McNamara for a 20-14 Gopher lead. Iowa rolled 68 yards in the quarter to restore the tie. The victory was Minnesota's sixth in eight games.

With five minutes remaining in the game, Iowa launched a last gasp drive from its own 29, a carry to the Minnesota 16 where Eddie Matheon fumbled Reichow's pass. Dick McNamara craved.

Two plays later and with but a minute left, Swanson stringing Minnesota's quarter fumble and Iowa's Jim Freeman tangled on the Gopher 18.

But Swanson, subbing for injured Gopher captain, redeemed himself on the next pass by intercepting Reichow's pass in the end zone after it had been deflected by halfback Shorty Cochran and run it back to the 6, seconds before the final gun.

Iowa scored 7 7 6 0 28. Minnesota scored 14 6 0 0 20.

Iowa scoring: Touchdown, Reichow, Smith, Vincent, Conversions, Freeman 2.

Minnesota scoring: Touchdown, Bob McNamara 2, Dick McNamara, Conversions, Campbell 2, Smith, Vincent (downed in the end zone).

150 Cars Clash This Week In Mexican Road Race, World's Longest

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Some 150 automobiles will roar over the starting line next week in Mexico's five-in-one road race.

The run—actually five separate races for different classes of cars—will start Nov. 19 in Tuxtla Gutierrez in southern Mexico and will end five days later at Ciudad Juarez on the Texas border, 1,908 miles to the north.

The event, started in 1950, has become one of the major road races of the year and is the longest regularly scheduled race in the world. The classes are for big sports cars, including Ferraris and U.S. Kurtis-Krafts; big stock cars; small U.S. stock cars; matching Dodge with Ford and Chevrolet; small European sports cars; and small European stock jobs.

The distances each day will range from 222 miles to 590 miles. The cars will not run at night and they will be given half an hour, not counted as racing time, to pass through the larger towns.

Prizes total $117,200. There are 10 cash prizes for each class, plus lap prizes. First prizes in the big sports and big stock classes are $16,000 ranging down to $560 for 10th place. In the small classes the range is $4,000 to $400.

Two cars in the big sport class are dark horses. One is the Kurtis Kraft, developed in the United States from Indianapolis cars, the other, the Spanish Pegaso, running a road race for the first time on this continent.

In the big stock car class, the Lincoln team is the favorite although a five-car Buick team is challenging. The Lincoln drivers will include Chuck Stevenson of Milwaukee who won the last two years; Bill Vukovich of Fresno, Calif., who won the Indianapolis 500; Walt Faulkner of Long Beach, Calif., who has always been a strong runner and Johnny Mantz, Los Angeles, another rapid driver.

Speeds are expected to be slightly lower this year than the 106 miles per hour turned in by the big sports cars last year and the 93 mile average of the Lincolns. For one thing, bigger crowds are expected along the highway. The people press in and sometimes delay the cars.

Notre Dame Tallies Three In 2nd To Crush North Carolina 42-13

By JERRY LISK

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Notre Dame's once-beaten Irish stunned North Carolina with a 21-point second quarter and then trotted out sophomore Paul Hornung for a one-man show in a 42 to 13 smashing of the Tar Heels Saturday.

Notre Dame, fifth-ranked in the AP's national poll, won its sixth victory of the season by letting the regulars grind out a 21-0 lead in the first 25 minutes of play and then testing reserves with profitable results.

As the Tar Heels went down to their sixth straight defeat by Notre Dame since the series started in 1949, Halfback Joe Heap scored the first two Irish touchdowns and sophomore Jim Morse, starting right half, the third on a short pass from quarterback Ralph Guglielmi.

After that, Irish Coach Terry Brennan tried to show mercy, but the Irish reserves—especially quarterback fullback Hornung—had different ideas, pushing across three more touchdowns.

North Carolina, trailing 42-0, finally scored on Al Long's 7-yard pass to Larry Parker.

With the game near an end, the Tar Heels again scored on a 16-yard pass from quarterback Doug Farmer to fullback Larry McMullen.

Fullback Don Schaefer and Hornung each booted three conversions for Notre Dame. Long kicked the lone Tar Heel conversion.

The fourth Irish score of the first half was made on a short pass from No. 2 quarterback Tom Carey to third string end Jim Munro.

Starting the third period, Hornung was tall back in an experimental Irish spread formation. Later in the same period Hornung ran 38 yards to North Carolina's fullback, smashed over for a touchdown.

In the fourth period, Hornung grabbed a Tar Heel pass and scampered 70 yards to North Carolina's 6, setting up a 4-yard touchdown smash by another reserve fullback, Jack Witucki, for a 42-0 Notre Dame lead.

It was then the Tar Heels finally drew blood with their desperation passing attack.

North Carolina was in trouble from the opening kickoff when Morse ran back the Tar Heel boot 77 yards to the North Carolina 22.

On the sixth scrimmage play, Heap darted over tackle from the 1-yard line for the opening Irish touchdown. Heap got his second TD on a 10-yard skip right end in the second quarter and after that the Irish were unstoppable.

MACOMB, Ill. (AP)—Western Illinois defeated Northern Illinois 14-0 Saturday but storybook quarterback Jerry Thines didn't have a hand in it. He spent the entire afternoon on the bench.

Thines was the freshman Coach Wes Stevens summoned from the stands last Saturday after injuries had deprived Western of all its quarterbacks. Jerry hurried into a uniform and, though he had never practiced with the varsity and didn't know the plays, passed Western to a 13-13 tie with Eastern Illinois.

Whereupon Stevens stated Thines would be his first string quarterback.

Though suited out in grid togs, Thines turned spectator again Saturday as Western broke a scoreless deadlock with a 76-yard drive in the third quarter and added an unneeded touchdown in the final minute.

Halfback Bob DeVries capped the first drive with a two-yard scoring burst through tackle. Quarterback Ozzy Hysen sneaked a couple of yards for the other touchdown. Ray Pearson converted both times.

The three-touchdown Irish explosion in the second quarter after an opening TD in the first quarter left North Carolina trailing 38-0 at halftime.

Hosts Lead At Half But Wisconsin Tallies Three In 4th Quarter

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Wisconsin, cashing in on a series of recovered fumbles and crucial penalty yards against Illinois, trip-hammered three touchdowns in the last quarter Saturday to chill the Illini homecoming with a 27-14 triumph.

A capacity throng of 71,119, who cheered the 13-point underdog Illini, as quarterback Em Lindbeck and injured J. C. Caroline mustered the team into a 14-7 lead through three periods, sat back in amazement when the collapse came.

Wisconsin, handing Illinois its fifth straight Big Ten defeat, played all but the first five minutes of the game without its star, rushing record holder Alan (The Horse) Ameche. The big fullback, hobbled with a bruised ankle, started the game. He was in for only seven plays and for the first time in his career did not carry the ball.

The Badgers, gaining their fourth conference triumph in six starts, sprung a reserve senior halfback, Bob Gingsass, across the goal line three times.

The aroused Illini scored twice on long drives in the second period to grab a 14 to 7 halftime advantage.

The passing of Lindbeck and the running of Caroline were the payoff punches.

Lindbeck hit Bates for 19 yards to touch off the first Illini scoring thrust—one that covered 54 yards in 11 plays. Abe Woodson barreled across from the 8 and Bob Wiman converted.

With five minutes remaining before the half, the Badgers blasted 62 yards in nine plays to score on Gingsass' four yard pass to Jim Haisuka's 31-yard push to Dave Howard, who caught the ball only to fumble it and then regain it again on the Illinois 19, set up the touchdown.

Glen Wilson booted the extra point to tie the score, 7 to 7.

Illinois came right back with Lindbeck returning the ensuing kickoff 24 yards to midfield. From there Lindbeck passed 11 yards to Bates and nine to eligible tackle Percy Oliver. Caroline, whose 16-yard run kept the drive rolling, eventually drilled across from the 4 and Wiman again converted.

Wisconsin's first break came late in the third period. Pat Levenhagen's punt was partially blocked by Illinois' Charles Butler. When the ball came down, Mickey Bates, Illini fullback, touched it. Clarence Bratt pounced on it for the Badgers. This touched off a 61-yard Wisconsin surge capped by Gingsass' 2-yard smash.

Glen Wilson converted, tying the score, 14-14, with less than three minutes gone in the quarter. Minutes later, Wisconsin drove 43 yards to score. Momentum was maintained on a 15-yard pass interference ruling against Bates after Lindbeck had stolen Jim Haisuka's toss for the Illini.

Wisconsin kept possession of the ball on the 15 and Gingsass eventually barreled across from the six. He also booted the extra point.

Fumbles Hurt As S. Illinois Bows To Washington U.

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP)—End Jean Dubal pounced on three Southern Illinois fumbles in the first half, setting up a Washington University touchdown each time to show the Bears the way to a 25-14 triumph Saturday.

The first half scores for Washington came on a 30-yard run by Ted Dunn, a 6-yard plunge by Mel Sage, and a 45-yard dash by Don Polkinghorne.

Southern Illinois counted twice in the final period, once on a 24-yard run by Henry Wartfield and again on a Gerry Hart-to-Wayne Williams pass good for 37 yards.

The Bears scored their final TD before the SIU Parents' Day crowd of 5,000 in the third period on a 46-yard drive with Dunn plowing over from the one-yard mark.

Georgia Tech's Speed Wrecks Alabama 20-0

ATLANTA (AP)—Tiny Jimmy Thompson, smallest man on the field, and his speedy sophomore teammates sliced the nation's leading defense to shreds Saturday and hauled Georgia Tech to a 20-0 victory over Alabama.

The lightning-fast Tech attack, paced by the 5-foot-6, 150-pound Thompson, consistently bewildered the bigger, slower Alabama defenders. Thompson, Paul Rotenberg, and Johnny Menger—all sophomores—treated a sellout crowd of 40,000 and a nationwide television audience to one of the better offensive shows of the season.

Thompson, from Bessemer, Ala., and rubbing it in on his home state for passing him up, scored two touchdowns and twisted and squirmed his way for the major share of Tech's yardage in the one-sided Southeastern Conference victory, in which Alabama failed to score for the third consecutive game.

Rotenberger raced 45 yards for Tech's first touchdown with the game scarcely a minute old.

Punt returns of 34 yards by Thompson and 55 by Menger helped keep the Engineers in Alabama territory during almost all of the first half. Thompson set up the second score when he ran a Bobby Luna kick back to the Alabama 27 late in the first period.

He carved out 15 yards a moment later and then scored from the 7, although hit by a beefy Alabama lineman at the one. Burton converted.

The little man scored Tech's third touchdown in the third quarter, going 5 yards off tackle to climax a 14-play 60-yard ground drive.

Until Saturday, Alabama was the best defensive team in the nation. The husky Crimson Tide had limited eight foes to 33 points.

In the final five minutes, Illinois' Harry Jefferson fumbled and Wells Gray recovered on the Illinois 31. Six plays later Bratt rammed over from the 14.

Oklahoma Ruins Missouri's Orange Bowl Hopes, 34-13

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Oklahoma struck twice through the air with lightning speed Saturday and rolled on to a 34-13 triumph over Missouri in a Big Seven football game that assured the Sooners a half-interest in their seventh straight conference title and knocked the losing Tigers out of a chance to go to the Orange Bowl.

Pat O'Neal, a third string quarterback, broke the scoring ice late in the second period by hurling touchdown passes of 14 and 22 yards to Bob Herndon and Billy Prier within a span of 25 seconds.

In the second half the Sooners, ranked No. 3 nationally, shifted their ground attack into high gear as Buddy Leake, Gene Calame and Herndon scored at the end of 67, 41 and 31-yard drives to wrap up their 17th straight victory in a streak stretching over two years.

Missouri, held to a net gain of 7 yards on the ground, didn't score until the final period when quarterback Vic Eaton and his understudy, Tony Scardino, hurled touchdown passes that covered 67 and 10 yards and avoided a shutout.

Another Kansas player, forward Irving Nees, injured his ankle during the game, which Kansas won over Hume 69-39. The Kansas team is in the top division of the Ambraw Valley Conference in eastern Illinois.

Giant-Eagle, Detroit-49er Tilts Highlight Today's Pro Grid Card

By The Associated Press

Sunday is the day of decision in the National Football League with Philadelphia and New York, tied for the eastern division, meeting at the Polo Grounds while San Francisco, No. 2 in the west and the only club to beat Detroit, faces the Lions again in the Motor City.

In addition, there is the meeting of the ambitious No. 3 clubs of both circuits, Cleveland from the east and the Bears from the west, blocking and tackling each other in Chicago.

The Chicago Cardinals, with Ollie Matson healed enough to play are at Los Angeles, and the Pittsburgh Steelers work out at the expense of the Washington Redskins to complete the day's program.

The rejuvenated Giants, who won only three last season, are slight favorites to defeat the Eagles and take over undisputed first place.

The New Yorkers have come up with a varied passing attack under new coach Jim Lee Howell and 11 different players have snagged the 27 scoring aerials. Bob Schnelker, the lanky end, has grabbed seven.

The Eagles come into the fray with James Farmer, fullback, and Bob Walston, outstanding end on the offensive platoon, hobbled by injuries.

San Francisco, surprise 37-31 victor over Detroit three weeks ago, comes east showing the general wear and tear of six consecutive rugged battles. Detroit, meanwhile, zipped through a 27-3 conquest of Baltimore in its latest outing.

Cleveland, of late, has been the Cleveland Browns of old with Otto Graham pitching passes to such old friends as Dan Lavelle and Darrell Brewster on offense and the defense patched up. The Bears who never have defeated the Browns, are having one of their best seasons with the veteran George Blanda doing the pitching.

Los Angeles, who slipped past San Francisco last week, should have a relatively easy time with the Cardinals.

The Steeler machine, thrown into low gear a week ago by the tough New York line, needs a victory over the Redskins to stay in the race.

Michigan Keeps Bowl Hopes; Mauls M-State

By JOE FALLS

IN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Michigan's Wolverines kept alive their hopes for a trip to the Rose Bowl Saturday with a 33-7 victory over Michigan State, the frustrated ex-Rose Bowl king, before a sellout crowd of 97,239.

Whipping the sparkless Spartans for the first time since 1949, Michigan scored in the second period on Lou Baldacci's four yard slam over left tackle and added the clincher in the third quarter when Ron Kramer, a giant end, blocked a punt and carried it into the end zone for a touchdown.

The Wolverines, who had lost four straight times to Michigan State, piled on three more touchdowns in a one-sided fourth quarter.

Halfback Dan Cline hit Baldacci with a 63-yard TD pass; Ed Sahnon knifed one foot over center, and Tom Hendricks returned a punt 68 yards to complete the rout.

The victory gave Michigan a 5-1 record in the Big Ten and left the Wolverines hot after Ohio State. They meet the Buckeyes next Saturday in Columbus for the right to represent the Big Ten in the Rose Bowl.

In losing its sixth game compared to only two wins, Michigan

I. C. To Observe Opening Of First Class In 1830

Dr. Louis H. Evans, Presbyterian minister-at-large and former pastor of the Hollywood, California, First Presbyterian Church, will be the speaker at the academic convention of Illinois College in January, celebrating the 125th anniversary of the opening of the first college class in Illinois, and climaxed the year-long anniversary celebration of the founding of the college.

The first college class met on a winter morning in 1830 in Beecher Hall, first college building in the state. There were nine students in the class. Beecher Hall is named for Edward Beecher, first president of the college and brother of Henry Ward Beecher and Harriet Beecher Stowe.

DR. LOUIS H. EVANS

The convocation will be held on Friday evening, January 7, in the Memorial Physical Education Building of the College. In charge of plans are the faculty committee for the 125th anniversary, headed by Dr. Joe Patterson Smith, professor of history, and the students' committee, headed by William Malotke, class of 1955. All friends of the college are cordially invited to attend.

Dr. Evans is a popular speaker on Christian subjects at military camps in this country and abroad, in colleges and universities, at both secular and religious conventions, and on radio and television. He is, according to Life Magazine, one of the twelve outstanding religious leaders in America — a man "whose energy seems inexhaustible and whose sermons are full of well-thought-out Christian doctrine and plain speaking." In recognition to his ability to communicate his Christian convictions, Tau Kappa Alpha, national college honor society in speech, selected Dr. Evans as recipient of its National Award as "Speaker of the Year 1951 in the Field of Religion."

Free of the administrative demands of the pastorate of the world's largest Presbyterian church, Dr. Evans is in a position to pursue the kind of traveling, preaching, and writing the Board of National Missions feels is essential if it is to carry out the mandate given it by the General Assembly to proclaim Christianity throughout the United States, its territories and possessions. One of the features of his pastorate in Hollywood was the marked growth of the youth department. He has lectured in several hundred universities and colleges, and as minister-at-large of the Board of National Missions he will continue to give much time to gatherings of young people.

Harvester Gives Talk

In a special education and business conference held on the Illinois College campus yesterday, Christian E. Jarchow, executive vice president of International Harvester, spoke on "Education for Business Careers."

Mr. Jarchow's talk was preceded by a review of the existing conditions of public education in the state of Illinois by the executive secretary of the Illinois Education Association, Irving F. Pearson. The two speakers were introduced by Frank R. Rantz, president of Elliott State Bank of this city, and Gerald Brown, Superintendent of Waverly Public Schools.

The relation of business to public and private education was shown in an explanation given by Mr. Jarchow of the trends effected by industrialization, which has led colleges to consider the introduction of programs leading to the Bachelor of Science degree for students planning for careers in business. Illinois College is introducing such a program.

Education for Industry

"I think of education and essential background of theory and knowledge in related fields and certain mental habits of problem recognition and solving . . . and training as a more limited and specific process," stated Mr. Jarchow as he explained industry's approval of training backed by education.

He continued by saying that the industry of today not only requires of employees the specialization of former years, but the abilities which can only be provided by a liberal arts education.

Mr. Pearson told the assembled group that if education had developed on the national level instead of the state level, that it would be likely that we would not have freedom of education and the kind of democracy that we enjoy today.

He concluded that the people must take the responsibility of education instead of investing the authority in some federal agency.

Plan New Features At International Livestock Exhibit

CHICAGO (AP)—Progress in the livestock industry will be featured at the 55th annual International Live Stock Exhibition November 26 through December 4 in the International Amphitheatre at the Chicago Stock Yards.

According to the management, larger accommodations are now available in a new 41 acre addition to the Amphitheatre.

A Sure-Progeny display, staged by the Texas Technological College, the Texas A. and M. College, and the United States Department of Agriculture, will be a new feature this year. The exhibit, first time ever to be shown, will emphasize striking variations in the rates of gain of beef calves by different purebred sires.

A herd of Santa Gertrudis cattle—a new breed developed at the King Ranch, Kingsville, Texas, will also be exhibited at the Chicago show for the first time this year.

Carcass classes will play a more prominent role in the world's largest meat animal exhibition. Animals entered in this competition are first judged alive and, after slaughter, their carcasses are evaluated by meat experts. The management reports that prize winning steers, sheep and swine carcasses will be on display to the approximately half million spectators who will attend. New glass enclosed coolers are being installed for these exhibits.

Illinois Farmers Outlook Letter

HIGH LEVEL CONSUMER

USDA economists expect consumer buying power for farm products to be at least as strong in 1955 as it has been in 1954. Spokesmen for the federal farm agency say that 1953 and 1954 were about normal for peacetime years and that similar conditions will continue through 1955.

SPENDING IS THE GREAT FORCE THAT TURNS THE WHEELS OF COMMERCE AND INDUSTRY. In order to estimate the rate of business activity in the year ahead, it is necessary to study prospective rates of spending by government, business and consumers.

Two important streams of spending are decreasing. These are (1) spending by the federal government and (2) spending by business for new plants and equipment.

Government spending for defense was cut by $11 billion, or one-fifth, in the past 12 months. A further reduction is scheduled, but it is much less than the cut-back in 1954.

Business spending for new plants and equipment was trimmed by $2.5 billion, or nearly one-tenth, in the past 12 months. Recent reports point to a slight further reduction in 1955.

Several important streams of spending seem likely to hold steady or to increase in 1955. These potentially strong branches include (1) spending by state and local governments, (2) business spending for inventories, (3) family and personal spending and (4) spending by foreign purchasers.

Expenditures by state and local governments increased about $2 billion in the past year, and recent big bond issues point to a similar increase in the next 12 months. The increased outlays will go largely for schools, streets and highways.

The inventory situation is stronger than it was a year ago. Businessmen reduced their storehouse and warehouse stocks by $4 billion in the past 12 months. This reduction in retail sales that were not matched by industrial production and output. Some further reduction in inventories is likely, but production may again be stepped up to exceed rate of sales sometime in 1955.

Consumers are spending a little more this year than they did in 1953, and they may spend still more in the year ahead. This year is seeing housing construction at the second highest level in history. One-fifth more new homes were started in September than the year before. Lower interest rates and easier mortgage payment terms are stimulating the housing boom.

Family debts were reduced in the first part of 1954 and recently were at the same level as one year before. If unemployment does not reach alarming levels this winter, consumers will probably spend more freely in 1955 than they did this year.

Farmers seem to be shaving their non-real-estate debts a bit this year. Their holdings of money and United States bonds are about the same as they were a year ago, and farm income is likely to be nearly as high in 1955 as this year. Thus farm spending in 1955 may hold up at about the 1954 level.

Export sales held up surprisingly well this year, running slightly greater than in 1953. At the same time foreign buyers have increased their holdings of dollars and gold. They seem likely to continue buying from the United States at about the same rate as they have bought in recent months.

The strong points in the business outlook seem to outbalance the weak spots.

To Launch Farm, Home Development Program In Cass

VIRGINIA — Representatives of the Cass County Farm Bureau and Home Bureau Boards, Farm Adviser Russell Merdeth and Home Adviser Bertha Varnum met with W. F. Colledge and Miss Marian Symington, from the University of Illinois at the Farm Bureau Hall in Virginia last Monday. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the new Illinois Farm and Home Development program. Cass county is one of the 29 counties approved for this program.

An assistant farm adviser will be added to the extension staff in Cass county to help carry on this program.

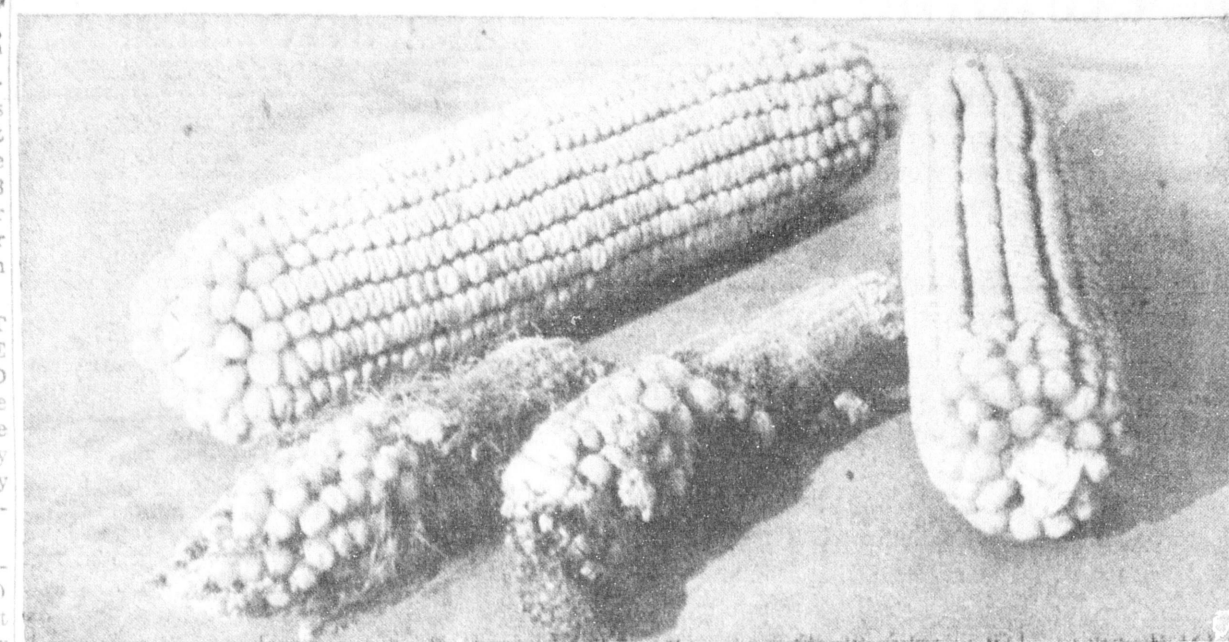

This development program is to be worked into the existing projects that extension workers are now carrying on in their counties. The program goals will be the same efficient production, better health and better living. Instead of developing one project, such as dairying, water systems, or clothing or food freezing, however, extension will be working to develop the entire family unit.

The extension personnel will be working closely with farm families to supply the information needed to develop and carry out the families' plan. Farm families will enroll in this plan and there is no charge for taking part in this program.

Families interested in more information on this program may contact the farm or home adviser in Virginia, Ill.

Oat silage will fit into a beef feeding program that makes the best use of home-grown feeds.

HOW WAS YOUR CORN CROP?

There's no sense or pattern in this year's corn crop.

Now that practically all of it that will be harvested is in the crib, experienced observers say they "simply don't know what to think about it."

"Good land with high fertility levels, well tilled and on a good rotation produced good yields here and there and nearly complete failures here and there."

"And some poor land that was handled badly not only this year, but in years gone by, made some pretty good corn."

"It just doesn't make sense," seems to be the general conclusion.

Wonderful—Terrible
The farm editor picked four ears of corn from two Morgan County fields that comes fairly close to pointing out the extremes. The two splendid ears were the best from a square of 16 hills in a field in the northern part of the county that made 85 bushels per acre. Nearby fields ran from poor to fair to good.

The other two bunnies, it requires some charity to call them even that, were the best from a square of 16 hills in a field in the southwestern part of the county. The field wouldn't pay for the picker, and a hundred bushels by volume, of the stuff wouldn't fatten a hog. What few kernels there are have been greatly damaged by earworm and mold.

Not far from this field was another that shucked out 45 bushels an acre and a mile and a quarter away another made an estimated 60.

Dry At Wrong Time
Farm Adviser E. H. Garlich says his impressions, gained by field trips make him feel that subsoil moisture "could have been the dominant factor."

"Tests on irrigated land in the west," he said, "indicate that moisture deficiencies, even for 24-48 hours while the plant is shooting will spell the difference between a good crop and a failure."

"About all I can say for sure, is this: Fields that were flourishing, booming along, by July 15 were hurt very badly by the hot winds, coupled with lack of moisture. Corn that looked slow and indifferent then turned out much better."

Riech was one of the 18 finalists in district contests held throughout the state. The theme for the 1954 talk meet, at both district and state level is "Democracy Doesn't Just Happen."

This theme is broken up into 10 sub-topics. No contestant knows what his sub-topic will be until three minutes before he is to speak.

First and second place trophies will be awarded and the winner will qualify for the national meet to be held Dec. 13-16 in New York during the annual meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

POWERS TO APPEAR ON KSD-TV TUESDAY

John H. Powers, manager of the Woodson Farmers Elevator Company with elevators at Woodson and Murrayville, has been selected to appear on the Dixie TV Farm Show Tuesday, Nov. 16, at 6:50 a. m.

PCA Members Attend 21st Annual Meeting

More than 700 farm people from Cass, Menard, Morgan and Scott counties were in Jacksonville Wednesday evening to attend the 21st annual meeting of the Production Credit association. The event was held in the Jacksonville high school auditorium and the program featured reports of business carried on during the past year and a hour's entertainment by Radio Station WLS stars.

LeRoy O. Castle of Bluffs, association president, presided and reviewed the activities of the past 12 months. Nomination reports were presented by Harold Ackerman of Menard county, Audace Herzberger of Cass and Dave Milion of Morgan. Re-elected to the board were Arthur C. Wilson of Murrayville and Alford R. Dick of Beardstown.

Ready To Help
G. E. Spencer, secretary-treasurer, gave his report. It showed that the farmer owned cooperative continues to extend short-term credit in the amount of about two million dollars annually and that the association is now in a strong position to aid drought-stricken farmers.

An open forum indicated that a majority of the members present favored the issuance of life insurance, at the borrower's option, to cover the term of the loan. The directors will continue to study this phase.

All Renamed
At the reorganization meeting all officers were reelected. They include Castle, president; Wilson, vice president; Spencer, secretary-treasurer; Anna Mae Hynes, assistant secretary; William E. Sower, assistant treasurer; Robert B. Sheerin, central office representative; Paul $750,000 is needed to make this plot plan for the proposed addition to Our Saviour's Hospital a reality.

After many years of waiting—after painstaking study, the present building fund program was conceived. The cost of constructing the new wing and improving the existing hospital will add up to a grand total of $750,000.

With the successful completion of Our Saviour's Building Program, Jacksonville will receive greater recognition as a medical center where skilled doctors are available and modern hospital facilities are present.

Only through your gift can these funds be raised.

YOSHIDA'S PROPOSAL

In the interest of the security of the United States and the entire free world, we must hope that the current visit of Premier Shigeru Yoshida of Japan to this country proves fruitful.

The aged Japanese leader is here, of course, partly to express gratitude for all that America has done to assist Japan since the close of World War II. But more importantly, his visit is intended to dramatize his nation's serious economic plight and to stimulate remedial measures.

Put simply, Japan's problem is the same one many European countries faced at the war's end. They could not sell enough goods abroad to pay for vital imports. As an island industrial power which must draw in food and raw materials, Japan today feels this difficulty acutely.

The postwar allied occupation and all the military expenditures incident to the Korean war simply postponed the moment of reckoning. Now it is here.

Japan must find new and wider markets for her goods. She must also somehow obtain the capital needed to modernize and advance her substantial industrial plant. To achieve these goals clearly requires outside assistance, mainly from the United States.

In his various public utterances since coming to American shores, Yoshida has discreetly and convincingly put Japan's case.

He has urged adjustment of tariff barriers to the end that Japan can sell more manufactured goods to this country. He has indicated sensible interest in developing the vast potential market of southeast Asia.

Speaking before the National Press Club in Washington, Yoshida called for a sort of Asiatic Marshall Plan which would aid underdeveloped Asian lands by investing some $4 billion a year in capital for economic and social improvement.

According to the premier, Red China is today investing capital at a per capita rate twice that of all current capital investment in southeast Asia. Unless the free nations can combine to match or surpass this effort, Yoshida believes the "gravitational pull" of China upon the poverty-stricken southeast Asian nations will be irresistible and they will fall to communism without a struggle.

The premier's proposal is a thoughtful one. This plan, indeed the whole problem of Japan and the Far East, deserves the most sober attention from the United States. For clearly Asia is today the most perilous area for freedom, forthright, statesmanlike action is needed to build strong, healthy nations there if they are to survive as free lands.

AGE-OLD PASTIME

The relic-diggers have turned up some ancient equipment obviously used for dice games and other gambling activities in the prehistoric past.

Fittingly enough, the stuff was found in southwestern Utah, not too far from today's great gambling mecca, Las Vegas, Nev. We leave it to the philosophers and social scientists to speculate on what strange quirk of fate it was that put our present sports so close to the Indian casino.

The Las Vegas boys probably will put in a strong bid to cart this collection of relics off to their various emporiums. They can set up little museum sections to warm their customers with comforting reminders of the great tradition behind the gambling trade.

The fellow who just lost a sockful can catch a glimpse of some Indian dice on his way out and reflect thoughtfully that guys have been going to the cleaners for a long, long time.

SPA, Belgium (P)—When you return in peacetime to a place you knew 10 years before in war, there is often a big emotional letdown.

The small landmarks you thought you'd never forget can no longer be found. The landscape looks different. The people seem different, too. They often do not want to be reminded of the past, and you have an uneasy feeling of being lost in time. You are a stranger to the quiet present, a phantom echo from a noisy previous period better forgotten.

But it wasn't that way at all coming back for a luncheon at the Hotel Du Portugal here, which 10 years ago was home to some 40 or 50 war correspondents of the American 1st Army.

Mrs. Maria Thonart, widow of the hotel and her son, Robert, gave me a warm welcome. So did Alice, the chambermaid, whose boast for 25 years has been she never lost a shirt.

"Things have improved and now the world has come again to us," said Mrs. Thonart. "Life has resumed. We are normal again."

Spa, now back to its prewar population of 9,000 is one of Europe's most famous watering places. Members of nobility, including Peter the Great and Charles II of England, over the centuries came here to enjoy its bath and mineral springs. It was from here that the Kaiser Wilhelm fled to Doorn at the end of the World War I.

And when the American 1st Army came here in September 1944 it promptly moved into the old German headquarters in the Hotel Britannia. The correspondents then took over the Hotel Du Portugal and gay and sad times we had there. It is the best remembered press center of the European campaign.

The weather was grim; the battles were grimmer. Several correspondents were killed in action during our stay here, several, badly shown by footloose gentle-wounded. The hardships were many, but it was a time of tremendous vitality. The possibility that a sudden break might lead to a quick end to the war gave each daily trip to the front an air of expectancy.

After writing their dispatches, the correspondents usually celebrated in the evenings in a big double room "chambre six." Decorated with an enormous captured Nazi flag, it soon became a hangout for generals, visiting celebrities and Red Cross girls as well as newspapermen. Some of the greatest campaigns of the winter were fought out in "chambre six" or at least begun there—campaigns Adolf Hitler never even heard of.

Mrs. Thonart, recalling the varied history of "chambre six," then invited me to go up to the second floor for a look at it.

I opened the door, and a silence loud with the echoes of a vanished time flooded over me. The red decor of the room had been retained, but a bathroom had been added, cutting the chamber almost in half. There was no Nazi flag on the wall, although I looked half-expecting it would be there.

When I came back down the stairs, Mrs. Thonart looked up with a gentle smile and said: "Chambre six—it is different?" "Yes, it is different."

She mentioned some of the personalities at our press center, including Marlene Dietrich and Ernest Hemingway. Of the dead we did not speak aloud, nor had we need to. But suddenly, caught by her own memories, Mrs. Thonart began to weep.

When it was time to go, she poured us an aperitif, and said: "They were the best days of a bad time."

Her son, Robert, said something else that added a welcome footnote to the wartime history of "chambre six" and the responsibility shown by footloose gentle-

LINCOLN TOMBSTONE FOUND

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (P)—The lost tombstone of Eddie Lincoln, second son of Abraham Lincoln and Mary Todd Lincoln, has been found after being missing for 89 years. Dr. Harry E. Pratt, Illinois State historian, says the white marble slab was found face down and serving as an entrance stone to the burial plot of Gov. Ninian Edwards, Illinois' third governor, and his descendants in Oak Ridge Cemetery.

Edward Baker Lincoln died Feb. 1, 1850, a little more than a month before his fourth birthday. He was buried in Hutchinson's Cemetery, eight blocks west of Springfield's public square. In 1865 following the assassination of President Lincoln, Edward's body was moved to the temporary Lincoln tomb in Oak Ridge, beside the bodies of his father and brother, William. When the present tomb was finished it was placed there.

Mrs. Lincoln, later in 1865, gave Eddie's original tombstone to her eldest sister, Elizabeth Todd Edwards, wife of Ninian Wirt Edwards, son of the governor. Mrs. Edwards had it moved to Oak Ridge and the name "Edwards" engraved on it, Dr. Pratt said.

Nut Devil's Food Cake Is a Tasty Thanksgiving Dessert

By GAYNOR MADDOX

NEA Food and Markets Editor

Every year around the holidays we like to feature again the recipe for our favorite cake. It is chocolate all the way through, moist, rich with nuts, eggs and milk, and is covered lavishly with a glossy chocolate frosting decorated with nut petals.

So once again at Thanksgiving time, or any other festive time, here are our best wishes for luxurious eating.

Brazil Nut Devil's Food Cake (Yield: Two 8-inch layers)

One-quarter cup shortening, 2 cups firmly-packed brown sugar, 2 eggs, 4 squares (4 ounces) unsweetened chocolate, melted, 1 cup chopped Brazil nuts, 2 cups sifted cake flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 3 teaspoons soda, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup plus 2 tablespoons milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Cream shortening; add sugar gradually and cream thoroughly. Add eggs, one at a time and beat until light and fluffy. Add melted chocolate and beat well. Mix in Brazil nuts. Sift together flour, baking powder, soda and salt; add flour mixture alternately with milk to batter. Stir in vanilla. Pour into 2 deep greased 8-inch layers.

Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 35 to 40 minutes. Let stand 5 minutes and remove from pan. Cover with glossy chocolate frosting and garnish with Brazil nut petals.

Glossy Chocolate Frosting (Three squares (3 ounces) unsweetened chocolate, melted; 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar; 3 tablespoons hot water; 3 egg yolks, un-beaten; 1 cup butter or margarine.)

Pour melted chocolate into mixing bowl. Add sugar and water; mix well. Add egg yolks, one at a time.

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT

The Pearl of Great Price

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

We think of Jesus as a great teacher and savior. Often we emphasize His social teaching and His bearing on life today. One seldom, if ever, hears Him spoken of as an economist. But if economics has to do with worth and values surely Jesus has His high place among the economists. For He had a great deal to say about getting the most out of life.

He set great importance too upon things and factors that most economists fail to consider. His parable of the Rich Farmer (Luke 12) was a striking instance of this. Here was a man apparently much like other men; neither very good nor bad as the story shows, but efficient and successful, with a store of wealth built up through the years. He would, no doubt, have been a fine example for younger men, as he was active, practical and highly skilled in farming.

He did what the average successful farmer would do, he planned in accordance with his wealth. He pulled down his barns and built greater ones; he wasn't going to let his produce rot in the fields. He even showed a measure of good sense that successful and retired farmers don't often show, in deciding to take it easy, and enjoy what he had built up.

What was wrong about that? Wasn't it good economics? He lacked, of course, the proper attitude of a man; religiously, he was selfish and self-centered; he was not "rich toward God."

But what I am stressing here was his great economic blunder. He had not reckoned with the most important factor of all—his own life. If I am not mistaken, the Greek word translated as "soul" in the parable is the word denoting physical life, and not the higher spiritual nature.

The farmer may have been lacking in proper spirituality, but the point is that in losing his life he lost all that he had won, and of which he boasted. "This night thy soul shall be required of thee: then whose shall those things be?"

Another instance of the economics of Jesus is the parable of the Pearl of Great Price (Matthew 13:45). It is a parable of the Kingdom of Heaven as the priceless possession; but it also has its economic aspect and significance. In every life in every home and family there is something that is more valuable than all else.

I had a striking, but rather sad, example of this some years ago. A brother of one of my ministerial brothers had come from England with his family to settle in Ontario. With hard work and money they had acquired a farm, and good years seemed ahead after much struggle.

They had harvested their first crop, the last load was in the barn, and they sat down to supper after a hard day. Suddenly they looked out to see the barn in flames. It was a cruel blow. It would be wrong to say that they didn't mind, but there was for them a pearl of great price to be counted above all their loss. The children who a few moments before had been playing in the barn were there safe at the table.

What a true and sound economist and interpreter of life was Jesus. For everyone there is something of value above all else. Happy and blessed is he that finds it.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (P)—Notes and comment on the new films—

It's open season on press agents, and they don't like it a bit. First came Jack Carson in "A Star Is Born." The character is slightly more redeeming than when it was first played by Lionel Stander in the 1937 version. But he's still a hard-hearted soul who helps send James Mason to his suicidal swim into the sunset.

Now it's Edmond O'Brien in "The Barefoot Contessa." He's a sweating, insincere praiser who will demean himself for a buck. Both Carson and O'Brien will be up for supporting awards when academy time rolls around. It's my bet that O'Brien will snag one.

Hollywood's real press agents are muttering about the injustice of it all. They claim that films are biting the hand that praises them.

"A Star Is Born" and "The Barefoot Contessa" show the dangers of going hog-wild with footage. Both are too long. Fortunately, Warners save the folly of their three-hour epic and have trimmed 25 minutes out for future runs. I'm sure it is a better picture because of it.

"Contessa" could stand a similar trimming. The writer-director was so enamored with his wordage that he repeated one scene in its entirety. His words are mostly wonderful, but you can get too much of a good thing.

Those who scoffed at Elizabeth Taylor as an actress will have to eat their words when they see "The Last Time I Saw Paris." She's great. And it should be a lesson to her studio to pull her out of these dreary costume epics and keep her in up-to-date stories.

Van Johnson comes off well in "Paris" too. Both he and Liz have never been better. The scene in which he pleads for custody of his daughter would bring tears from an installment collector.

"So This Is Paris," a merry romp with Tony Curtis, Gene Nelson and Paul Gilbert as gobs on leave in the city of light, shows that musicals don't have to be over-stuffed to entertain.

What have you done lately to please myself? That is a question that every woman ought to ask herself occasionally.

So much of what a wife and mother does is to please others. She does a great many things either to please or appease or impress her husband.

She does as many or more for the welfare and happiness of her children.

She does countless things because they are expected of her by friends, relatives, or even the acquaintances who want her to head a committee, bake a cake, join a club, donate her time, etc.

She even does a lot of things because of what "they" will say if she doesn't. "They" set many of her standards and force her into many activities.

DO SOMETHING YOU WANT TO DO

With all she does for her husband, her children, her relatives and friends, the outsiders who call on her for help, a woman often overlooks the need to do something now and then simply because that is what she wants to do.

So what have you done for yourself lately? What have you done for no other reason than that was what you wanted to do? For no other satisfaction than the fun it gave to you?

Think about it now and then. It is natural for women, much of the time, to put the interests of their family ahead of their own.

But every once in a while, if she is to keep from acting or feeling like a martyr, a woman must think of herself first of all.

Not in a whining way by telling herself she never has time to do anything she wants to do but in a positive way by saying, "It is time now for me to do something I want to do."

'Operation Poinsettia' Will Brighten Christmas Abroad

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (P)—(NEA)—The first of six million Christmas food packages—the gift of the U. S. government to poor families in some 40 foreign countries—will start moving out of Philadelphia about Nov. 15. Shipment will be completed by Dec. 1, in order that distribution abroad may be completed before Christmas.

This will be the second year of this Christmas gift from the American people to the needy in non-Communist countries. The plan was inaugurated last year by President Eisenhower in an effort to make some of the American foreign aid program reach down directly to the most deserving of the poor and hungry common people. Most foreign aid goes to military assistance or to public works projects which benefit the people only indirectly.

This year's Uncle Santa Claus program has become known as "Operation Poinsettia." It will distribute a million more packages than last year and it will be handled somewhat differently.

Twenty U. S. private charity and church agencies working overseas will handle the distribution this year. They will be responsible for selecting the families to receive the packages. The U. S. government's share of the program will be confined to furnishing the food supplies, packaging them and paying the costs of transportation to overseas ports.

THE TOTAL COST TO the government will be close to $30 million, or about $5 a package. This will include over $21 million worth of food which will come from Commodity Credit Corporation's surplus food stocks of cereals, dairy products and fats.

In addition to this, Foreign Operations Administration is buying a one-pound can of beef and gravy which will go into each package. FOA will then pay all packaging and transportation costs to foreign ports. These costs are expected to total $8 million.

The cost of the food itself will average around $3.50 a package. Its retail value would be $4.50 in U. S. stores.

What each family gets, in a brown paper bag or a carton will be from 13 to nearly 15 pounds of food varying from country to country according to customary diets.

THE BASIC PACKAGE for northern Europe will be one pound each of butter, shortening, dry beans, beef and gravy plus three pounds of rice and five pounds of wheat flour.

Southern Europe and Latin America will get nearly five pounds of nonfat dry milk powder in place of the shortening, and the rice will be cut from three pounds to two.

Near East and Africa will get cheese and cottonseed oil in place of the butter and shortening. The Far East will get all the fats and oils, but no wheat flour.

Shipments to the Far East will be in bulk, with the packaging done abroad. All other packaging will be done in America.

Each bag will bear a big red emblem of clasped hands over an American shield with the message "Donated by the People of the United States of America."

"SILVER SCULPTURE"

A totally new trend
in sterling silver by
REED & BARTON

To create "Silver Sculpture," Reed & Barton's silver artists have shaped a "figure" in the same way a sculptor would work with stone or bronze. They have created rhythm from the very purity and gleam of silver itself. The result is a pattern of many moods; fresh, and thoroughly modern. Yet its soft, sculptured beauty makes it adaptable to traditional decor. Come in and see the totally new "Silver Sculpture" by Reed & Barton. See how excitingly different it looks in different lights—how perfectly it will complement your home. See how comfortable it is to hold.

A Tribute To Gold Star Mothers

Behind that little gold star that hangs in a cottage window is a mourning mother who will never forget. Her son gave his all in Okinawa, over Dusseldorf, in some concentration camp... or on the high seas. That was her little boy, the little, curly-head lad who once climbed on her knee and knew nothing of men's greed and lust for conquest. It is fitting that we pause a moment in thought and prayer with those many mothers whose sons willingly made the supreme sacrifice. They are carrying on without tears or hatred, these mothers. Let us revere them, too, for the sacrifices they made that we, the living, may still be free!

That evening she was the guest of honor at a special Youth Day dance held in the clubrooms of the local Moose lodge.

Rhode Island's Sen. Green Newly Reelected At Age Of 87 Expects To Serve Until He's 100

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—Rhode Island's 87-year-old Sen. Theodore Francis Green, newly reelected to his fourth consecutive term, likes to think about becoming the first man to serve in the United States Senate at the age of 100.

"But there are plenty of other jobs to do," he says cheerfully. "If the voters ever decide I'm too old."

Already nearing the all-time senatorial age record, Green is a spry, brisk, stepping little man whose athletic feats sometimes alarm his colleagues. They beg him to slow down.

But Green still takes an ice-cold shower every morning, walks the 2½ miles from his club to his office on Capitol Hill at 8 a.m., and trots up long flights of stairs.

Why, Green complains he was "persuaded" to give up daily stints on the rowing machine in the Senate and high-diving in the local YMCA pool a few years ago.

"My friends told me it was risky for me to swim, hike and go through a stiff workout in the gym at my age," he said, "but I worry about them—lounging in the club lapping up cocktails."

He still plays tennis, though, and even in the dead of winter he often walks to the YMCA for a swim.

Golf? "No-o-o! It's an old man's game!"

Since the days of the Continental Congress, only two U. S. Senators have attained a greater age than Green while in office. They were Justin Smith Morrill of Vermont (1810-1898) and Carter Glass of Virginia (1858-1946).

Morrill lived a little more than eight months after his 88th birthday. Glass was 88 years and some four months old when he died.

Green is out to beat both those marks—and then some. On completing his new six-year term, he will be 93.

The Rhode Island senator observed his 87th birthday Oct. 2 in the midst of a whirlwind political campaign that saw him make as many as six or seven speeches in a single evening of stumping the state.

Awed by his undeniable vigor and bounce, Rhode Island voters ignored the opposition plea that Green was too old and ought to be retired for his own good.

They swept him back into office Nov. 2 by a thumping majority over his Republican rival, Walter Sundin, a mere youngster of 64. Shortly before the election, in an interview at his 150-year-old home in Providence, Green was asked about rumors of a purported "deal" whereby, if re-elected, he would soon retire and Gov. Dennis Roberts of Rhode Island would take over his Senate seat.

"If elected," Green replied crisply, "I hope and expect to serve out my term. And I give fair warning, that doesn't commit me in any way as to what I may do in regard to a further term six years from now."

Some Rhode Island Democrats, impatient for Green to retire so they can move up the political ladder, are privately resentful of his long-range ambitions. One of them asked to comment on the senator's extraordinary vitality, inquired with gloomy sarcasm:

"What are you trying to do—prove the old boy is still alive?"

Although his name seldom hits the headlines, Green's old world courtesy and calm judgment have made him one of the most respected men in the Senate.

A life-long Democrat, bachelor and millionaire, Green closely resembles the late actor Roland Young in the role of "Topper." He has twinkling blue eyes and a broad Boston accent and wears gold-rimmed pince nez clipped to the bridge of a strong Roman nose. His mustache is a puff of white festooning a long upper lip. Green is proud of his physical and mental vigor. Friends recall that a few years ago, when opera singer Rosa Ponselle asked how he kept so trim, Green astonished her with:

"Until recently, madam, I wrestled."

Except for handyman - butler - caretaker, Green lives alone in the old house during his infrequent visits away from Washington.

Asked why he never married, Green chuckled. "Too busy—or too unlucky," he said.

Sometimes known as the "Providence Brahmin," Green in his long life has been a lawyer, financier, industrialist, scholar, linguist, world traveler, politician and ageless athlete.

"I keep young by thinking young," he said.

He hasn't come around yet to buying a television set—"TV it's thrust in your face!" he said scornfully. But he commented:

"I've been on almost every radio and TV guest program—except the Quiz Kids."

By way of accounting for his long life, Green said:

"I'm not a vegetarian. I eat anything anytime. I'm not a teetotaler, either. At cocktail parties, I'll take a glass or two. It's pleasant."

"The secret of longevity is moderation. I don't get worried and don't get excited. It would take more or less of a bomb to upset me."

He's even taken precautions against that possibility.

He had a bomb-proof shelter constructed beneath his 100-year-old carriage house a few years ago.

One of the richest men in the Senate, Green reputedly owns seats of real estate in Providence, Woonsocket and other Rhode Island towns. In addition to his law practice, he was president for 10 years of the big J. & P. Coats Thread Co. with 5,000 employees at Pawtucket, R. I., and organized the Morris (loan) Plan in his state.

Twice governor of Rhode Island (1932-36), Green likes to recall how, in a single afternoon of "bloodless revolution," he swept out his long-entrenched Republican foes and cleared the way for his own program to reorganize the state government. Among other things, he fired the entire Republican-manned State Supreme Court.

Green won his first political spurs at 40 when he was elected to the Rhode Island Legislature in 1907. A quarter of a century later, after repeated failures, he was elected to his first term as governor at the age of 64—a time when most men are ready to retire.

A native of Providence, Green was only 15 when he entered Brown University, a few blocks from his home on College Hill in Providence. He won a Phi Beta Kappa key at Brown, majoring in mathematics and Greek and went on to take his law degree at Harvard Law School.

In Washington, where he is known as a "big navy" senator and a strong supporter of the Roosevelt-Truman New Deal-Fair Deal policies, Green is in constant demand at social-diplomatic dinners because of his keen New England wit.

Plithy and trenchant in his remarks, he has made the following observations:

On Washington's famed cherry blossoms — "they're greatly overrated. You have to look at them across throngs of people and banana peels and paper cups. I prefer Rhode Island apple blossoms."

On the United Nations — "the trouble with most of us is that we expect miracles."

On Russia — "No American in his right mind will deny that Soviet imperialism is bent upon world conquest. America cannot go it alone. Our fate is inextricably bound up with that of the entire free world."

On Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) — "a lot of senators are scared of McCarthy. I think it's pathetic."

On drinking coffee at banquets — "I never touch it—afraid it would keep me awake during the speeches."

Hero Of World War I, Alvin York, Thinks Foot Soldiers Still Needed

By JOHN HARRIS

PALL MALL, Tenn. (P) — The nation's top hero of World War I has a lot of respect for the new superweapons, but you can't shake his belief in the lowly doughboy.

"You have to have the foot soldier to hold your ground," he says in his slow Tennessee drawl. "It's just like clearing a piece of land. If nobody's there, weeds and sprouts will come along and take it."

This man should know. He's Alvin York, whose skill as a rifleman won him dozens of medals and international fame.

Now 66, York has been confined to his bed since February, when he suffered a brain hemorrhage causing partial paralysis. But he expects to get up soon. Before being stricken, the 6-foot-2 mountaineer weighed 270 pounds—about 45 more than when he singlehandedly put out of action a German machine-gun battalion in France 36 years ago. He killed 25 Germans and captured 132.

As chairman of the Pentecost County draft board, York keeps in close touch with selective service, and he follows national and international news closely. It's his conviction that another global war may break out in Europe "any time now."

In case of war, he's all for using atomic and hydrogen bombs.

"I'm in favor of putting the H-bomb to them. We spent our money for these bombs—let's use them," he says. "There is no difference in killing a man with a bomb and with a rifle. If you kill him, he's killed."

The old soldier lives in a comfortable home on a 400-acre farm in this small community, located on the heavily wooded Cumberland Plateau near the Kentucky border. He owns another 2,000 acres nearby, and in addition to his farm holdings has several oil wells.

The Tennessee sharpshooter does not hunt much any more because of poor eyesight.

"My shooting eye (the right one) hemorrhaged some time ago and I have to shoot left-handed to sight with my left eye," he explains.

"The last time I shot, a year ago, I could hit what I was shooting at," York says. "I have seven children, the youngest 16 and 'talking about joining the Army when he gets to be 17."

"If he wants to go in at 17," York says, "the road's open."

The second son, George Buxton York, now 31, was named after York's battalion commander, the man who convinced the young soldier that his religious convictions need not keep him from fighting.

York's role in World War I is legend.

On Oct. 8, 1918, he and several comrades captured the headquarters of a machine-gun battalion commanded by a German major.

Before they could follow up their advantage, the Americans were hit by blistering machine-gun fire which left only six survivors, York and five others.

All but York took cover. The mountain man just sat in the mud and pumped away at the German machine gunners.

When a German stuck his head out of a machine-gun pit, "I just tetcht him off," York said. He used his Springfield rifle, then a pistol.

While he was working on the machine gunners, a squad of Germans suddenly charged with fixed bayonets. York calmly picked them off one by one. When the smoke cleared, 25 Germans—some said there were more—bore mute testimony to York's deadly aim. There were no wounded.

In addition to the Medal of Honor, the sergeant was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross, the Medaille Militaire, the Croix de Guerre with palm, the French Legion of Honor, the Italian Croce di Guerra, the War Medal of Montenegro, and many others.

Eye-Appeal Of New Cars Work Of 'Glamor Scientists'

By DAVID J. WILKIE

AP Automotive Editor

DETROIT (P) — The automobile industry is nearing the completion of another model changeover season, having spent hundreds of millions of dollars to enhance the sales appeal of its product.

One of the things that stands out as the new models roll from the assembly lines is the increasing importance the manufacturers are giving to eye-appeal.

Engineering, with half a dozen new V8 engines, better brakes and improved transmission, still took the major share of close to a billion dollars spent on the model changeover, but styling has become so vital to sales volume that designers are beginning to talk about what they call the "science of glamor."

For years whatever glamor there was in automobiles came mainly from their exterior contours. Now there is general agreement that glamorizing an automobile has many other factors, including interior styling, color and fabric selection.

Chrysler Corp., which has just spent 250 million dollars to bring out entirely new lines of cars in a comeback effort, is one of the major producers with a vast styling section in its engineering division. As an example of what is involved in glamorizing a new model, the Chrysler engineers point to the fact that more than 12,000 man-hours were devoted to developing the style and eye-appeal of the 1955 Plymouth model alone.

The group of "glamor scientists" working on the Plymouth made complete analyses of 90 different exterior colors, made and discarded more than 100 designs for new seats, arm rests and door panels. They conducted seven different tests on each of 232 kinds of fabric. Then they compared their findings with an imposing list of known facts on buyer likes and dislikes compiled from consumer studies.

The "science of glamor" turned out to be painstaking detail work, demanding specialized knowledge in the fields of physics, chemistry, physiology and psychology.

Among the things the "glamor scientists" developed in their studies were: two-tone paint jobs do not necessarily make a car look either longer or shorter; the more popular cars are those whose interior colors match those of the body; fewer women than men are color blind.

It all adds up to the fact that building an automobile to compete in a five-million-units-a-year market is decidedly different from what it was in the 1920s. It probably also explains, in part, why from 18 months to two years now are required to get a new automobile from the drafting board to the assembly line.

Lynnville Ladies Aid Makes Plans For Goose Supper

Mrs. Essie Cooper entertained the Ladies Aid of the Lynnville Christian church at the November meeting. Assisting her were Miss Ruth Hamel and Mrs. Madeline Brown.

The meeting was opened with group singing followed by prayer by Mrs. Lorena Thynn. Impressive devotions were given by Mrs. Charles Leitze using Psalms 100 as her theme. There were 23 members and two guests present.

Election of officers was held and it was voted to return all of the present officers for the coming year.

Plans were made for the goose supper which will be held Thursday, Nov. 18 at the church. A country store will also be a feature of the supper.

A new member, Mrs. Petefish, was added to the group at this meeting.

Following the aid benediction, refreshments were served. The December meeting will be held at the home of Miss Sallie McKinney in Jacksonville. A 50c gift exchange will be made.

Members of the church please note, Tuesday afternoon will be work day at the church.

Quemoy Is Peaceful Battleground, Not Warlike, Not Very Worried

QUEMOY ISLAND — Quemoy lies beneath the very eaves of Red China and is today the closest thing on the globe to a battlefield. But you find it peaceful and warm and pleasant and slow pokey — except for the military camps — and not at all warlike and not very worried.

Quemoy seems something like a midget New Caledonia, a Pacific island which peacefully dozed through World War II despite the irritation of half a million soldiers. The war's cutting edge never quite reached it. Quemoy hasn't been so lucky. She has already tasted war and probably will taste more.

The rocky island is part of the outer barrier of Amoy Harbor, a Red Chinese port almost directly opposite the middle of Nationalist-held Formosa. Communist land troops only a few miles away to the west, north and south of Quemoy.

Last Sept. 3, for unknown reasons, the Reds opened up on Quemoy from Amoy with 6,000 artillery shells and have kept on pounding, although with much less intensity. The Nationalists retaliated with island guns, gunboats and United States committed to defend Formosa, found herself confronted with the awkward question of whether that also meant Quemoy.

The question had not officially been answered when on Sept. 23 Nationalist naval and air action was suddenly broken off and shelling limited to regulation, which still is the case. You still can hear shells whumping in the distance during visits. International pressure is suspected of having slowed the action.

Has the danger of invasion passed? Not likely. Many Red small craft concentrations were smelled out and dispersed by gunboats and planes. When the planes and gun-boats left the Reds waited a month. Now from lookouts here you can see they have again gathered and are practicing landings in the backwaters.

With few planes overhead the Reds are getting bolder, says Gen. Yin Tien-chia of the Quemoy staff. One of these days they may stop practicing and make a run for Quemoy.

Is Quemoy worth saving? That can be argued both ways. Yin called it part of the shield around Formosa (along with the other small islands of Tachen, Matsuo and the Pescadores).

While Chiang Kai-shek holds these islands the Red cannot safely invade Formosa from cross channel bases — they have to keep their invasion bases awkwardly far to the north or south.

Other values: Quemoy is a plug in a Red port that accommodates 10,000-ton ships and is a base for political, psychological, intelligence and guerrilla warfare against communism.

How strong are the Reds? Reports put 200,000 troops within striking distance, three-fourths of them just across the bay.

Is Quemoy ready? As ready as a small island can be. Quemoy has too many good landing beaches for comfort but they are all zeroed in by artillery battalions and a fast road network puts them in quick reach of defending troops. There seem to be enough men and weapons here, but the airfield isn't much.

An all-new and exclusive Turbo-Drive automatic transmission with a specially designed throttle kickdown is featured in 1955 model Lincoln and Lincoln Capri cars. Engine power has been increased to 225 horsepower, with major improvements in displacement and compression ratio to achieve more efficient and economical performance. Styling refinements include a newly designed front end, a longer rear quarter panel with a distinctive tail light assembly, and new two-tone upholstery combinations finished in striking moccasin stitching. Pictured is a two-toned Lincoln Capri coupe.

THE STORY OF MARTHA WAYNE

By WILSON SCRUGGS

PRISCILLA'S POP

By AL VERMEER

THE STORY: Greg Sawyer, a young man who wants to do things on his own, leaves the security of a job with his father to be Wade Daggett's chauffeur. Daggett, a well-to-do invalid, becomes sympathetic toward Rupert Landusky, an alien who is in the country illegally, after Daggett and Greg found him suffering from exposure on their route. They cannot decide what should be done about Rupert. Then Greg meets Hannah Blake, who had been jilted and robbed. Daggett suggests that she join the party as his niece till some plans have been made about her.

XVIII
SPRING was poetic but not to Hannah. Call her attention to a green field and she was as likely as not to discuss fertilizer. Her eyes were too large and her mouth too wide but her body was beautiful if you liked them sturdy. Rupert obviously did. Greg preferred a more ethereal type.

Daggett commented tartly on this preference one night when Greg was helping him to undress. "You would admire those bloodless Rossetti girls. Personally, I can't see much poetry in anemia. I never look at the picture of a pre-Raphaelite female without thinking a few shots of cod liver oil would improve her."

Greg tried to smother his grin. "Just the same, I am right." Daggett insisted. "No one should be exposed to poets until he comes of age and has a little experience for ballast. There is one thing I've noticed: poets don't practice what they preach. If you'll observe what they do, not what they write, you'll see that they keep those ethereal dream girls where they belong. On paper."

Hannah had changed everything. She was a superlative cook. No one could deny that. Though even that had its drawbacks, for while Rupert looked better every day, Daggett was putting on too much weight.

But when Hannah got a meal

Hannah. I think she needs something I lost a long time ago, a kind of simplicity of heart. She has the humility, a generosity that would be easy to abuse. You know, when one reads American magazines abroad one expects to find the women very superior and aggressive about their liberties. And then one finds a woman like Hannah who can be happy only in bondage, but bondage to someone she loves."

"She isn't still in love with that guy who jilted her, is she?" Rupert gave him a curious look. "Why not ask her?" Greg had no intention of asking her. She was a nice girl but she was in the way. She took the adventure out of the trip. Not that it was her fault. Some girls could work themselves to death to please you, as Hannah did, and they were as itching to have around as the kitchen stove.

"Then if you aren't interested, why do you hang around her all the time?" Greg was chagrined by his own snappish tone. "Sympathy. Interest. Warmth. Comfort. These are Hannah's gifts."

"But not for you?" "Not for me. A man, after all, cannot take everything and give nothing. Even a starving man. And what I have left to give a woman would not have value for Hannah."

WHEN Hannah joined them, they had to make one important change. Up to that time they had stopped at the nearest trailer park when Daggett got tired. Now they had to consult maps and arrange to get to a town where the girl could spend the night at a good hotel, which took all the spontaneity out of the trip. Greg grumbled, and then you worried for fear she would not find a nice place to sleep or something would happen to her.

He was thinking of this as he turned onto the side road. Not telling where it went. If they got stuck somewhere, Hannah might not have a place to sleep that night.

PITTSFIELD—Ray Tarzwell of Jacksonville, who has been in the employ of a Jacksonville Foods Super Mart, has been employed as manager of the Pittsfield Foods Super Mart on West Washington street, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Bill Lemons, who has served in that capacity for the past five years. Open House
A large attendance of veterans and families and friends were present at the open house sponsored for them by the American Legion and its Auxiliary on Thursday night. The program included an address by Service Officer Fred W. Ziese of Decatur, singing by the Washington Family of Barry, music by the McHose Sisters and Frank Worthington and Glen Myer, the Clark Brothers of Summer Hill, and the Aton and his orchestra who furnished the music for the dance which followed the program. The event was reported to have been one of the most outstanding patriotic events ever held in this city, with the deep appreciation of those present for the boys who served in both World Wars and the Korean conflict, together with those who received training in this country and were not sent overseas. The evening's entertainment and the refreshments were served free to all in attendance.

Sight Saving Pupils Sing At Arcadia Club

The Community club at Arcadia met Saturday evening, Nov. 6, at Arcadia Hall for an oyster supper served to a large crowd by the social committee, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ogle and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Thompson.

After the pledge to the flag the secretary and treasurer's report were made by Mrs. Robert Daniels. Mrs. Frank Ogle, program chairman, introduced the following numbers on the program: Wayne Strubbe, soloist, "I Believe," "Because of You" and "My Mammy" accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Herbert Strubbe; Mr. and Mrs. Myers from the Illinois Braille and Sight Saving school at Jacksonville presented several songs by a girl's quartette from the school.

Mrs. Kirgen, Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Hutt gave reports on the care of blind children from the positions as housemothers at the school in Jacksonville. Mrs. Hutt gave two readings to conclude the program. The December meeting will be the Christmas program with adults having a fifty cent gift exchange. Social committee members will be Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Masten and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Daniels. The children will have a twenty-five cent gift exchange.

Local Women Hear Girl Scout Leaders

Ten Jacksonville women were in attendance at a three-day regional conference of more than 1,000 Illinois Girl Scout adults last week in Springfield, at which prominent speakers discussed the Girl Scout movement's role as "a growing force for freedom."

Jacksonville women at the sessions included Mrs. Robert Hemphill, Mrs. Ross Bradley, Mrs. Robert King, Mrs. Ted Fairburn, Mrs. Ernest Chumley, Mrs. Jack Thomas, Mrs. Keith Hopper, Mrs. Darrell Wilson, Mrs. Bart Johnson, and Mrs. Lloyd Graunke.

Speaking at the closing session, Dorothy Stratton, national executive director, analyzed the Girl Scout promise in which every girl and adult in the organization vows to "do my duty to God and my country."

"That which Girl Scouts and Girl Guides hold in common is that God comes first," she said. "I think this may very well be one of the reasons that Scouting has been driven out of, or has had to go underground in every totalitarian country in the world. God does not come first with people or with countries which have embraced the materialistic philosophy."
